British Columbians Again Battle Flooding Fraser River

SANDBAGGING BRIGADES are in action once more in British Columbia as belated runoff swells Fraser River and threatens Valley farmers. Reminiscent of 1948 is the scene at Agassiz as engineers sandbag dike there. Threatened break-through 40 miles east of Vancouver, failed to materialize as flood-fighters fought successful battle to plug breach at Harrison Mills.

AERIAL VIEW of B.C. flood shows Fraser River creeping into town of Albion. Water has flooded basements and some families have been evacuated. Albion is on north side of river east of Haney, B.C. But river showed slight drop during night and danger is believed past.

Falling Window Kills City Girl

Residents Protest After Boy Dies

Death of a Martin Estate schoolchild, hit by a truck yesterday noon on 109 street near 60 avenue, has roused a storm of protest among district residents against alleged speeding on 109 street.

The boy, 9-year-old Ralph Haig, 5305-109 street, died instantly when hit by a gravel truck proceeding north on 109 street between 60 and 61 avenues.

Alderman Dick Hanna, himself a resident of Martin Estate, said he had numerous complaints from residents about gravel trucks speeding in from the 53 avenue city limits north on 109 street.

"There's no question about it," said Alderman Hanna. "There is speeding on 109 street, particularly by gravel trucks."

He placed himself squarely behind area residents in their efforts to have 109 street closed off to truck traffic at the south city limits. "It should not be used as a trunk road going through a residential area," he said.

PARENTS FEARFUL

"Parents here have feared the worst," he said, "and now the worst has happened."

He said Martin Estate property-owners had asked City Council last November to close 109 street at the city limits, pointing out that opening of a drive-in-theatre at 51 avenue and 109 street would make the

Attempt To Enter Locked House Fatal

A West Edmonton schoolgirl was killed about 4 p.m. Tuesday, her neck broken in a tragic attempt to enter her locked home.

Marilyn Franklin, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Franklin, 10017-131 street, had just returned home from school at the time.

Her death was the second within four hours involving a city school-child. At 12:05 p.m., Tuesday Ralph Haig, 9, 5305-109 street, was killed instantly when hit by a gravel truck as he cycled home from Allendale School.

The Franklin girl reportedly stood on her bicycle to raise a window at the rear of the house, which she found locked. The window slammed down on her neck, breaking it, as she leaned over the sill.

TRIES TO FREE SELF

She strangled to death, but marks on the wall and ground indicated she kicked strenuously in a vain attempt to free herself.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin found their daughter still pinned under the window when they arrived home shortly after the accident. Fire department inhalator crew was unable to revive the child.

The girl has a younger brother, Stanley, three. Howard & McBride funeral directors are in charge of funeral arrangements.

Coroner Dr. M. M. Cantor said there would be no inquest.

Battle Is Won As Breach Plugged

Homes, Rich Farmlands Safe As Flood-Fighters Triumph

VANCOUVER, June 2—(CP)—A night-long battle was over and flood-fighters were the victors.

At Harrison Mills a breach in a vital Fraser river dike was plugged early today and homes and rich farmlands saved from a muddy torrent.

Under the glare of searchlights, 200 desperate army-civilian workers battled throughout the night and shortly after dawn came victory.

Word of success came shortly before communication lines to the Fraser valley district were cut, but the cause was not immediately known.

The whole flood picture was brighter today. The fury of the Fraser appeared in check and from northern and interior river points came optimistic reports.

FRASER SHOWS DROP

The Fraser showed a slight drop during the night, the latest reading at the 24.68 feet mark. The high yesterday was 24.19 feet.

Cooler weather aided the men who guard the dikes. It was cloudy over most of British Columbia today and scattered showers were forecast for some districts. Temperatures were five to 10 degrees lower. The only real danger would be a heavy rain.

At stake in the Harrison Mills battle were 1,500 acres of farmland, about 40 homes and vital communication links.

If the dikes go, Canadian Pacific Railway traffic would be threatened and the vital Lougheed highway would be cut.

WELL ABOVE LEVEL

The Fraser, meanwhile, was held in check in most areas by an $11,000,000 chain of dikes built after the 1948 floods, guarding the valley.

The midnight reading at Mission, where the official level is recorded, was 23.90 feet, well above the 20-foot flood level but a drop from the 24.07 reading at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The situation was almost unchanged at Harrison Hot Springs, resort town 75 miles east of Vancouver. Harrison Lake was still rising, but at a slower pace than during the last few days.

Flood control officials there estimated that 65 per cent of the town's houses either were flooded or surrounded by water. Trucks plowed through water-covered roads to reach the town.

Rain Need Urgent Says Crop Report

Need of rain for Alberta crops is urgent.

Crop report issued today by the Alberta department of agriculture stated that "unless early rains are received crop prospects appear decidedly unpromising."

Some reports of burning have been received, although most of the crops have withstood the drought fairly well to date. Day to day deterioration is now becoming evident.

Crops in the extreme southwest of the province and in the Peace River area are generally satisfactory, but in all other parts of the province the need for rain is urgent.

Drought has affected germination of some coarse grains. Grasshoppers are now hatching rapidly in southern areas, but control operations are underway and little damage has occured to date.

Pastures are poor to fair only, and hay prospects are unsatisfactory in many districts.

A slight decrease in the number of young livestock on farms is indicated. Calf population is remaining at last year's level, but number of lambs and pigs has declined.

Milk production is continuing to show downward trends as a result of poor pasture growth. During May, Alberta's production of creamery butter dropped by three per cent.

Hay fields in some sections are now being used for pasture and many districts are faced with poor prospects for winter feed.

Second Blow Strikes Coal Branch Area

Special to The Bulletin

MOUNTAIN PARK, June 21—A second blow has hit the unfortunate Coal Branch area.

Mountain Park Coal Company has ceased operations and thrown 135 men out of work.

Lack of markets, no subsidy and higher freight rates were given as the cause of the closing.

Underground mining ceased in February and only the strip-mine has been operating since. Order to quit work was issued by the mine manager, Don McKinnon, yesterday at 11 a.m.

FIVE WERE KILLED

Last week five miners were killed in a slide within the mine where they worked at Cadomin, and the flood which caused it washed away some of the homes.

Closing of the mine will probably mean the small village in the beautiful mountain valley will be just another skeleton mining town in a few months. It had been in operation since 1914.

Already anxious miners, some of whom had grown up in the village, were preparing to leave.

S. Africa Communists Disband Preceding Ban

CAPETOWN, June 21—(Reuters)—South Africa's Communist party disbanded yesterday as the house of assembly was giving its approval to a bill to outlaw the party and all Communist activities.

Shortly before the house voted the third reading of the bill, Sam Kahn, natives' representative and the only professed Communist in the house, announced dissolution of the party.

The house passed the anti-Communism measure, officially the suppression of Communism bill, by a show of hands and sent it to the senate.

MAXIMUM PENALTY

The bill provides a maximum penalty of 5 years imprisonment. It empowers the governor-general by proclamation to outlaw any other organizations which professed on or after May 5, 1950, to propagate principles of Communism.

Individual Communists or members of any outlawed organization may be debarred from being members of parliament or other bodies specified by the minister of justice.

Declaring that "we in South Africa are sitting on a volcano," Justice Minister Charles Swart told the house last week that "a secret organization among the natives, led by Communists" was preparing a coup.

Postmasters To Ask Boost

CALGARY, June 21—(CP)—An increase in remuneration for Canadian postmasters would be the top objective of the Canadian Postmasters' Association during 1950, Don Taylor of Vermilion, dominion and provincial president of the Postmasters' Association, declared yesterday at the 22nd annual conference of the Alberta Postmasters' Association held here.

"Let there be an increase in salaries for all postmasters regardless of the group to which they belong," he said.

SOME CHANGES

During the past year some changes had been made and a number of new regulations had come into effect, Mr. Taylor said.

For example, an assistant who took over, as postmaster in a semi-staffed post office, when the postmaster retired, could receive the minimum salary for a postmaster of the particular group during the period he held office.

This year would see practically every post office in Canada with a revenue of more than $20,000 changed to a permanent staff basis by Oct. 1, he said.

gravel truck on 109 street between 61 and 60 avenues. He and another lonmerwood school child from the Allendale School had just "shot out" on bicycles from a 61 avenue shortcut on to 109 street. There, Haig was run over by a gravel truck driven by Steve Roper, 29, 12802-121 street.

Police said marks on the truck indicated the boy went into its right front fender. There were brush marks on it, which extended along the side of the car. The boy, still on his bike, apparently fell under the truck at the rear and was crushed by the right rear dual wheels.

Haig, an auburn-haired youngster whose bad sight caused him to wear thick glasses, was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Haig. He was in the third grade at Allendale.

NO ARRESTS PLANNED

Dr. Cantor, coroner, announced an inquest into the boy's death for early July. City police said they did not contemplate any arrests in connection with the accident.

The fatality was the city's sixth traffic death of the year. Four persons were killed on city streets between April 3 and April 25 and a fifth, CNR messenger boy Gerald Guthrie, 10419 - 93 street, was killed May 17 last by a truck at 127 avenue near 118 street.

traffic strain too great for 109 street.

Alderman Hanna said he also wanted to see all trucks eventually barred from residential streets as soon as alternative routes were built.

"It's a shame 109 street on the south side hasn't been closed to truck traffic before," said Edmonton Town Planner Noel Dant. He disclosed that City Solicitor T. E. Garside had prepared for some time an order of closure but that the the Province had refused to accept it until an alternative route was provided for heavy traffic.

He said the alternative would probably be the linking of 109 and 104 streets at the south city limits, so that traffic could enter the city on 104 street.

Mr. Dant said he envisioned an "outer ring road" along 51 avenue from 112 to 104 street. "But it is imperative at least to pave from 109 street to 104 street, if for no other reason than to divert traffic from 109 street," he said.

At present, there is no road between 106 and 104 streets on 51 avenue. A gravel road would have to be laid and the whole distance from 109 street to 104 street oiled for heavy traffic.

Later on, it is planned to construct an overpass where 51 avenue would meet the Calgary Trail, said Mr. Dant.

Continued hot weather, eased only by widely scattered showers, kindled four new fires in Alberta bushlands yesterday.

The crews, comprising more than 40 men, are hopeful of bringing the blaze under control today.

LESS SERIOUS FIRES

Less serious fires which broke out yesterday are located west of Edson, west of Athabasca and north of Wabisco Lake. About 15 men make up the three crews, which are believed to have the three fires under control.

Dangerous blaze was reported north of Cold Lake yesterday, and a crew of 33 men, using a bulldozer, are attempting to bring it under control.

In other sections of the province, fire fighters are making satisfactory progress against fires at Fairview, the old Grande Prairie Trail, north of Grouard, Slave Lake, Fort Vermilion, Edson and three in the Grande Prairie division.

gravel truck on 109 street between 61 and 60 avenues. He and another lonmerwood school child from the Allendale School had just "shot out" on bicycles from a 61 avenue shortcut on to 109 street. There, Haig was run over by a gravel truck driven by Steve Roper, 29, 12802-121 street.

Police said marks on the truck indicated the boy went into its right front fender. There were brush marks on it, which extended along the side of the car. The boy, still on his bike, apparently fell under the truck at the rear and was crushed by the right rear dual wheels.

Haig, an auburn-haired youngster whose bad sight caused him to wear thick glasses, was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Haig. He was in the third grade at Allendale.

NO ARRESTS PLANNED

Dr. Cantor, coroner, announced an inquest into the boy's death for early July. City police said they did not contemplate any arrests in connection with the accident.

The fatality was the city's sixth traffic death of the year. Four persons were killed on city streets between April 3 and April 25 and a fifth, CNR messenger boy Gerald Guthrie, 10419 - 93 street, was killed May 17 last by a truck at 127 avenue near 118 street.

Anti-Tory Charges Rouses Senators

Charges Claim Conservatives Tried To Force Conscription

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Charges that the Progressive Conservative party attempted to force conscription in the Second World War plunged the senate yesterday into probably its hottest debate of the session.

The charges by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L, Ontario) ended in a verbal tussle between Senator Roebuck and Senator R. B. Horner (PC, Saskatchewan).

Senator Iva Fallis (PC, Ontario) and Senator Horner took exception to Senator Roebuck's charge about the Progressive Conservative attitude on conscription. Senator Horner demanded a withdrawal but none was forthcoming.

WITHDRAW REMARK

Called to order, he was asked to withdraw his remark.

"I'll withdraw when he does," retorted Senator Horner, and sat down.

Senator Roebuck said he could not get as alarmed as others about the bill. He believed there would be conscription in the next war and the leader of the opposition would approve of that.

Senator Haig said he had never said that.

Then Senator Roebuck said the record of the Progressive Conservative party showed it tried to defeat voluntary enlistment in the last war to bring on conscription.

MOVED AWAY

Senator Horner demanded a withdrawal and promptly moved several seats farther away from Senator Roebuck.

"Take him outside," called a Liberal senator as the speaker called for order.

In the Commons, Health Minister Martin said that the long-debated question of a national health-insurance program is expected to come before the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference.

At least one province, he disclosed during study of his department's estimates, has asked that the question be placed on the agenda.

NOT INTERFERE

In the operation of such a plan, he said he did not believe anything should be done to interfere with the traditional doctor-patient relationship as it is known in Canada.

For the first time in weeks senate speaker Elie Beauregard called for an cross-fire erupted on second reading of a bill to give Prime Minister Howe power to stockpile war materials and take other independent steps for Canadian defence.

Senator John J. Haig of Manitoba, Progressive Conservative leader, led a parade of opposition speakers against the measure, termed "dictatorial."

START WITH "A-BOMB"

Liberal senators replied and one —Senator Vincent Dupuis (L—Quebec)—said the next war probably would start "with an atomic bomb" and there would be no time to call parliament to put the country on a war footing.

The bill was given second and third reading along with measures consolidating the military codes of the armed services and bills to amend Canada's citizenship act and approve new Canadian-United States taxation agreements.

Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader, in moving second reading on the defence supplies and projects bill noted that Canada at present is living in peace. But she was by no means free from the threat of aggression.

ALL POWERFUL

Senator Haig protested that the bill made "one man all-powerful." He believed the minister should get the approval of the cabinet and possibly parliament itself because "war is not going to come that quick."

Senator T. A. Crerar (L—Manitoba), a one-time Liberal cabinet minister supported the opposition. He did not see any immediate prospect of war and was against concentrating power in the hands of one man in peacetime.

Anti-Cominform Reds Organize

ROME, June 21.—(UP)—A new anti-Cominform Communist party started a campaign for followers throughout Italy today."

The new party has headquarters in Milan. It plans to preach a national brand of Communism, as opposed to the mother party's internationalism, and was organized with the moral support of Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Communism.

FOUR HUNDRED dollars is being burned up in this spectacular jet-assisted takeoff at Edmonton airport—but it's cheap compared to cost of single human life. Rocket takeoff equipment will be installed on RCAF rescue aircraft. First was test-flown yesterday.

Edmonton Scores Initial Jet Assisted Takeoff

Edmonton scored another first in the field of aviation yesterday when the RCAF test-flew the first operational aircraft in Canada to be fitted with JATO—jet assisted takeoff—equipment.

Watchers at the municipal airport thrilled as RCAF test pilot Flt. Lt. Robert Christie thundered down the runway and rocketed his big Dakota transport into the air in one-third the normal take-off distance.

The JATO equipment consists of two 240-pound rockets which provide a 2,000-pound thrust—equivalent to an additional 500 horsepower."

The rockets will be used by ski-equipped RCAF search and rescue aircraft to permit them to takeoff fully-loaded from small ice-covered lakes.

TAKEOFF DIFFICULT

"Aircraft seldom have difficulty landing on a small lake," explained Flt. Lt. Christie. "The difficulty is in taking off again, especially when a heavy load is picked up. JATO will be extremely valuable in northern rescue work."

JATO equipment is being installed on a group of RCAF Dakotas by Northwest Industries in Edmonton under direction of production engineer John Portlock.

It has previously been used by the RCAF experimental and proving establishment at Rockcliffe, Ont., but has never before been installed on operational aircraft.

The rockets, which cost $240 each, burn for 14 seconds and reduce normal takeoff distance from 3,000 feet to 700.

DAY BY DAY

It's Official Summer Now For This Year

It's officially summer.

The sun entered the sign of Cancer—the astronomers' description of summer's advent—at 4.37 a.m. today.

The infinitesimal moment when the sun pauses at the peak of its northward journey before starting back south is known as the summer solstice.

Astronomers call it an event too —not a period of time.

Meanwhile the weatherman came up with three longest days. He reported that today, tomorrow and the day after sunrise occurs at 4:04 a.m., sunset at 9:07 p.m.

The literal longest day is probably today—but the difference is in seconds.

Saturday you can start worrying about the shortening days again. The sun will rise at 4:05 a.m.—a big minute later than on the longest day.

Grande Prairie Plan 'Unsound'

Would Require 98.3-Mile Line Costing Over Million

Cost of supplying gas from Pouce Coupe to the northern Alberta centres protesting export of gas to Dawson Creek would be "prohibitive and economically unsound."

Testimony to that effect was presented to the Petroleum and Natural Gas conservation Board Wednesday by Julian Garrett, national gas consultant who prepared the original report for the companies concerned.

Mr. Garrett was called by D. P. MacDonald, council for the west-coast Transmission company, which is seeking permission to construct a 17-mile pipe line from Pouce Coupe to Dawson Creek.

Previously, protests against "the export of gas from Alberta before Alberta citizens had been served," came from Ira MacLaughlin, M.L.A. for Grande Prairie, and J. O. Patterson, chairman of the Grande Prairie Chamber of Commerce, who voiced complaints from Hythe, Beaverlodge, Wembley and Grande Prairie.

COST OVER MILLION

A pipe line to supply Grande Prairie as well as Dawson Creek would have to be 98.3 miles in overall length, the main line from Pouce Coupe to Grande Prairie would be 83 and a half miles and the branch to Dawson Creek 14.8 miles, he testified.

Cost of such a line would be at least $1,151,680 with a possible upward revision, in order for the company to pay its own way, taking into consideration potential users the cost to the consumers would be at least 63.8 cents a cubic foot, he said.

Previously witnesses told the board they did not feel that more than 50 cents a cubic foot would be paid by the four northern municipalities.

Present average rate planned for Dawson Creek is 46.9 cents per cubic foot for all purposes.

RATE UNFAIR

If by any chance such a line were built, Mr. Garrett said in reply to a question from Mr. McDonald, it would mean the rate in Dawson Creek would be boosted to the 63.8 level, which would be unfair.

"Dawson Creek would be subsidizing the other centres.

"Additional gas producing wells would also have to be drilled in order to maintain needed reserves."

Recalled as a witness, Dr. A. W. Nauss, geologist, presented figures requested by the board based on double the requirements outlined in his previous statements.

PROTESTS REPEATED

Also called yesterday was J. O. Patterson, chairman of the Grande Prairie Chamber of Commerce who repeated the protests of his co-delegate.

Witnesses admitted there was a great difference in the mileage from Pouce Coupe to Dawson Creek, and from Pouce Coupe to Grande Prairie (85 to 90 miles) which might not make the longer route financially profitable.

Grand Prairie is too far from the field to make it economically feasible to supply it was gas from Pouce Coupe, Julian Garrett, national gas consultant who prepared the report for the companies told the board.

Dawson Creek will grow within the next decade to more than 6,000 he predicted. In reply to a question as to the amount of gas which would be necessary to supply a city of that size for the next 30 years he estimated the amount at 16 to 20 billion cubic feet.

George McMann, director of the Peace River Natural Gas Company and the Westcoast Transmission company said the company is prepared to drill further wells on their land in the Pouce Coupe field in order to assure an adequate supply and reserve at all times.

"We are willing to sell gas to anyone or take it to them if it is economically sound," he said. "But it would be too costly to pipe it to Grand Prairie."

AWAITING SANCTION

A franchise agreement has been prepared, received second reading by the council and now awaits the sanction of the board of commissioners in B.C. for Northland Utilities to distribute gas in Dawson Creek, W. H. Schloaser, president of the company testified.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, June 21.—Hank Smith, Rocky Mountain House sheep rancher believes he has a sure cure for coyotes—mothballs.

When the afternoon session closed Dr. A. W. Nauss had been recalled and in view of the evidence of Mr. Garrett has been asked to prepare further technical data on the northern field's gas potentialities for the next 30 years.

Cody Family Re-union Slated For Red Deer

Buffalo Bill will "ride" again and a big stirring section of western history will be re-lived in Red Deer, Alta., July 8 and 9 this year.

The bustling central Alberta town will be the scene of the two-day annual re-union of the Codys —descendants of the famous old Indian fighter and scout who made his name synonymous with western adventure.

The idea of the Cody Family Association of America was conceived by the late Col. William Frederick Cody—"Buffalo Bill" himself.

Some 5,000 families in the U.S. and Canada are eligible for membership in the association and all re-unions this far have been well attended.

Last year's gathering was in Salem, Oregon, and others have been held at Chicago and other U.S. cities.

MAY BE LARGE

Numerous Cody families are located in the Canadian west and it is expected the Red Deer gathering will be a large one.

The famous Codys are all descended from Philip and Martha Le Cody, French Hugenots who came to America in 1608, settling in what is now the state of Massachusetts.

Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, former minister of education in Ontario, was once chaplain of the association. Dr. Morley Cody of Calgary is a former regional vice-president.

Miracle Mile Meeting Set

City council will try again Thursday night to reach a decision on the draft agreement covering the Detwiler development.

Mayor Sid Parsons announced the meeting today.

He said all information required under Ald. William Hawrelak's Monday night motion will be ready. It includes data relating to what financial returns the city may expect during the requested 99-year lease.

Asked if any changes in the draft agreement will be proposed by the commissioners, the mayor said there will be none.

COUNCIL CAN DECIDE

"We were not asked to recommend any changes, and, besides, council can make up its own mind. That's what they were elected for."

Aldermen will face a 30-page agreement under which the city would lease the four city blocks bounded by 99 and 100 streets, from 101A to 104 avenue, to First New Amsterdam Corporation of New York for 99 years.

The corporation would, within 18 months, start to construct an initial $15,000,000 section of an ultimate $35,000,000 shopping, business, professional and entertainment development, a major feature of which would be provision for surface and underground parking for 1,800 cars and trucks.

City Hall Circus

The special council meeting on Monday night was called for the purpose of giving cool and calm consideration to a proposition from the First New Amsterdam Corporation of New York details of which had been in the hands of mayor and aldermen for more than a week.

It is a pity, then, that the transaction of this business, which required no more than a plain "yes" or "no" from the council was permitted to degenerate into a three-ring circus in which were featured:

(a) Submission of a brief from Lawyer Stan Ross representing certain clients whom he was not even asked to identify.

(b) An impassioned oration from Mr. L. E. Detwiler who, apparently, lost his temper, after enduring numerous delays and stalls, and said things for which he afterwards apologized.

So far as Mr. Ross' brief is concerned, council had no business to listen to it and, if Mayor Parsons had retained proper control of the meeting, council would not have listened to it.

It is bad enough that civic affairs are interrupted at almost every council meeting by delegations from this and that who should pour out their troubles to committees and not to the full legislative assembly of council.

But it is appreciably worse that such vital public business as this should be held up by the submissions of a barrister, acting on behalf of clients he does not even choose to name.

As Mr. Ross knows, he would not get away with that sort of thing in a court of law. And if Mayor Parsons had been on the job, he would not have got away with it before council, whose meetings are presumably conducted according to the ordinary rules of procedure.

So far as Mr. Detwiler's lapse is concerned, the merits of the project he has proposed will not or should not be determined by Mr. Detwiler's personality.

And Mr. Detwiler should remember that however obvious may be the advantages of the proposal he has made, Edmonton and Edmonton people reserve the right to consider it in our own Canadian way.

There is to be another council meeting soon to do what should have been done on Monday night.

Edmonton profoundly hopes that this second meeting will not resolve itself into an orgy of hysteria.

All this meeting has to do it to reject or accept the proposal submitted by Mr. Detwiler.

It is not a public hearing and should receive no delegations, known or unidentified.

An opportunity for a public hearing will occur when the matter goes before the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners. There will be a chance, there, for everybody to be heard.

All that is expected from council is not what several citizens who attended on Monday night called "entertainment", but a cool and orderly consideration of a vital public matter and a plain and unequivocal "yes" or "no".

The Unseen Audience

Public Is Kept In the Dark

There is a complaint from the city engineer's department that the green arrow turn signal at 101 street and 104 avenue is not working well because motorists do not understand it.

The obvious cure for that is to put up notices big enough and plain enough so that motorists cannot fail to understand it.

But the city seems to have the notion that these innovations can be tried out without taking the public into its confidence.

Exactly the same thing is true of bus routes and the identification of buses.

Hours of precious time are wasted every day while patient drivers explain to passengers exactly where the bus travels and by what route.

It would be so simple to have each bus identified by a large number on the front, visible at least a block away, and then have permanent signs at every bus stop explaining in detail the exact routes followed by the buses bearing those numbers.

Present identification marks on buses mean nothing.

The number 7 bus is still marked "Special" although it follows an established route.

It is impossible to secure public cooperation for these services so long as the public is kept in the dark.

Flagrant Waste of Parking Space

The police department's custom of forbidding the use of parking stalls flanked by meters that are out of order is a flagrant waste of parking space and should be stopped.

As everyone knows, every inch of parking area is at a premium every working day in every part of the downtown district.

And every day two or three or four of the parking meter devices get out of order, as any machinery is likely to do in excessively warm or excessively cold weather.

When motorists, having been lucky enough to find a parking stall, discover that the meter won't work, they are told by police constables to move on to another spot because if the meter won't work the stall it controls cannot be available.

This seems very much like nonsense.

What harm is it going to do the city or anyone else to allow a motorist to have a spot for free and thus take a small bit of the pressure off the general parking situation when these machines go out of kilter?

Then, too, why should the motorist be penalized for the meter's failure?

The city is making enough money out of these things to keep them in repair.

If the city fails to do that, the motorist should get the advantage of it.

Certainly it is a stupid rule that, for a two-bit technicality, restricts the already congested parking conveniences in the city.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

Zoroaster Takes A Hand In Herrings And Pinochle

Last Friday night on the way home from his weekly pinochle session, my Uncle Charlie was held up a few blocks from his home on Alder Street and a wallet containing $13 was taken from him. This misadventure, strangely enough, has made my Aunt Frieda very happy, and with her usual prudence, I'd like to tell you why.

Billy Rose

To begin with, to hear my uncle tell it, Frieda is crazy like a fox about most things, but when it comes to fortune telling and allied superstitions she's crazy like a crazy. This, of course, in Charlie's own words, "drives him to distraction," particularly when my aunt shells out good money for such charms and amulets as lucky horse-tail hairs and pieces of string with seven magic knots.

"I can't understand," I once heard him tell her, "how a distinct twentieth-century type like you could potsky around with such superstitions."

"Century, schmentury," Frieda answered. "What was good enough by my grandmother is good enough by me."

"So why didn't you marry your grandfather?"

"So when I look at you, that's who I'm thinking I married."

For Only Ten Dollars

The matter came to a crisis last Friday when Charlie arrived home from the shop and Frieda asked him for ten dollars.

"Only last week I am giving you ten dollars," he exploded. "What you making, a down payment on a Cadillac?"

"A catalogue I am not needing," Frieda sassed back. "Today I am purchasing from a certain Gypsy a brass fish with the sign from Zoroaster which is absolute guaranteed to make a party healthy, wealthy and wise, and also rich."

Charlie examined the brass object. "To me it looks like a tin herring," he said. "Where is living this Gypsy?"

"In the back of a store on Suffolk Street, and her I am trusting complete," said Frieda. "Instance, when Mrs. Feitelson was expecting, the Gypsy told her to sew up the stuffed dermas with black thread for a boy and white thread for a girl, and when she used the black, you saw what happened—a boy."

"It occasional takes place," said my uncle patiently, "that a boy comes in the world without black thread in the stuffed derma."

Magic Fish Put to Test

The upshot of the argument was a decision to put the magical fish to a practical test, and when Charlie went out that night for his weekly pinochle session, the good-luck charm was in his wallet. If he lost, it was agreed Frieda would stop patronizing Gypsy establishments; if he made a killing, however, he was to have more faith in her theories.

Well, as it turned out, my uncle won ten dollars which, added to the three he started out with, gave him a take-home total of thirteen. Reluctant to face gloating Frieda, he took a roundabout way home.

A few doors from a drugstore on Rivington Street, a hoodlum stepped out of an alley and stuck him up.

"Could you return, please, the pocketbook?" said Charlie. "Is genuine alligator leather."

"Scram," said the hold-up man, "or I'll bust in your head."

"A pleasure," said my uncle politely. "Cherry-ho."

Was This Ending Happy?

When Charlie got home, Frieda was considerably shaken up by the story of the stick-up, and was forced to admit that the brass geegaw was a flop. But the next morning she gave my uncle the horse laugh when the mailman dropped off a small parcel with the wallet in it, its contents intact. There was also an unsigned note.

"Dear Mister—When I see you got the Fish of Zoroaster, I decide to send everything back because I have dealing with such fishes before and don't want no part of them. Besides, when I count up the money I find thirteen dollars exactly. I know when I'm licked."

"See?" said my aunt. "On account of the brass fish, everything is turning out hunky-totsy."

"Maybe," said my uncle, "but to me it still smells from herring."

Smiles

"Oi, there," shouted the policeman, "where's your rear-light?"

"I want to see where I'm going to, not where I've been," said the cyclist, disappearing into the darkness.

The teacher had recited "The Landing of the Pilgrims." Then she requested one student to draw from his or her imagination a picture of Plymouth Rock.

Most of them went to work at once, but one little fellow hesitated and at length raised his hand.

"Well, Willie, what is it?" asked the teacher.

"Please ma'am, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"

Having only recently moved into the district she was determined to impress the neighbors. She arranged for a musical At Home, and told her husband to see to the booking of a musician to entertain the guests.

"Have you engaged the pianist yet?" she asked her husband a few days before the great evening.

"Yes, my dear," he replied, "a great virtuoso."

"Never mind about his morals. Can he play the piano?"

Capital Punishment

Editor, Bulletin.—It is hard to see how anyone who has thought about the matter can imply that those who uphold the abolition of capital punishment are making heros out of the criminal.

Nor is it a question of mercy. It is a matter of finding the most effective way of lowering the murder rate and eliminating crime.

The 'abolitionists', of which I am one, believe that this can be done with the same careful study and scientific approach which resulted in the conquering of such diseases as smallpox and diphtheria and which may provide the cure for cancer.

Society does not regard the victims of physical or mental illness as heros but society knows that the cure cannot be found by executing the patient. Rather, the attitude is that, however small his chances, the patient should be kept alive if for no other reason than to discover what made him succumb, to trace the disease to its source and to keep others from following in his wake. Crime or disease occur where an individual has weakened before the burden of his environment, has failed to adjust himself to the forces about him. They are cured, not by methods of punishment, but by painstaking research and scientific treatment.

The countries and the states below the border which have abolished the death penalty have not found any increase in their murder rate; in some cases it has actually declined. The idea that capital punishment can prevent murder is as ridiculous as to say that cancer can be wiped out by giving all children who catch it a good spanking.

Extreme Nationalism

Editor, Bulletin—In the Time Weekly Magazine of June 5th, 1950, Page 9, I read where President Truman in addressing 550 delegates of the Annual National Citizenship Conference, declared as follows: "I think it is the greatest honor in the world, simply, to be a citizen of the United States."

With all due respect to Mr. Truman as President of the United States, I can hardly believe that he expects any citizen of any other country in the world to agree with him.

It is very unfortunate that leaders of nations can not see that extreme nationalism is even worse than Communism dictatorships and greedy capitalism, and the main obstacle in the completion of the United Nations World Government which is the only salvation for the human race.

Acknowledge Debt

Editor, Bulletin—There is one point I would like to make in this flag controversy; I address it to those who would like to see the Union Jack erased from the Canadian flag.

It is simply this: that but for Britain, Canada in its present form would not exist. There would be no Toronto, no Winnipeg, so Saskatchewan or Alberta or Manitoba, or even Columbia. The northern half of this continent would be a French colony. It might, of course, be an excellent place to live, but that is beside the point. Whatever it was, it would not be Canada as we know it today.

It is hardly likely, in these circumstances, that the freedom-seeking people of Europe would have ventured here. I cannot visualize Germans and Hungarians, Slavs and Norwegians and Swedes seeking these shores if a French government held sway. Whatever their other virtues, the French have never been a great colonizing people, as witness their history in Madagascar and Indo-China and North Africa. It was because this country was a British colony that people swarmed to it from Central Europe in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

When therefore a native-son finds the Union Jack irksome and seeks to rid this country of its British connection, let him reflect that but for the Mother Country he, in all probability, would not be here. The least he can do, then, is to acknowledge this debt by retaining in the corner the Union Jack as a prominent part of the Canadian flag.

How About Sunbathers?

Editor, Bulletin — I definitely am against the antics of the Doukhobors and feel they should be justly punished, but can anyone explain why they are jailed for nudism when there are hundreds of "legal" nude sunbathing camps whose members are never jailed or reprimanded in any way. It strikes me as queer.

Fair Taxation

Editor, Bulletin—Our Dominion Parliament appears to be wrangling over the question of social security and I understand that great pressure is being used to do away with the means test. If this happens it would certainly be an evolutionary process of priming the pump as it would mean a great increase in spending power.

Canada is a rich country and could very easily give adequate old age pensions on a contributory basis and also give proper allowances to disabled veterans. The income tax in Canada is very low compared with that of the Old Country as the latter pays three times as much or more. In Canada civic and municipal taxes are somewhat excessive. These are not on income but on land and are high on account of soaring school costs. Besides paying heavy income taxes the Old Country also has to pay local rates of so many shillings in the pound. The income tax is the fairest tax that can be imposed as it is based on ability to pay.

Grave Pilgrimage

Editor, Bulletin — We read in the newspapers about the Nexi-of-Kin Association trying to get a pilgrimage to the gravesides of our war dead.

There are thousands in this country who really would love a trip home to visit our loved ones, but the fares are so high that it would be wonderful to hear of excursion trips that we could afford. Not only that, it would bring prosperity to Britain in more ways than one.

I hope the Legion will take up this cause soon.

Persecution Of Douks

Editor, Bulletin — Newspaper reports have stated that the Doukhobors were persecuted by Czar and his secret police in Russia.

I wonder if you can produce any evidence of such persecution and to what it amounted? I wonder also why the actions taken by Canadian authorities against the troublemakers are called legal punishment and similar steps taken by Czarist government as "persecution"?

In regard to the "merciless" Czar's secret police, it is a pity indeed that they were not. If they actually were merciless, as the unfortunates painted it, there would not be that Communist gang in Kremlin now to frighten the rest of the world.

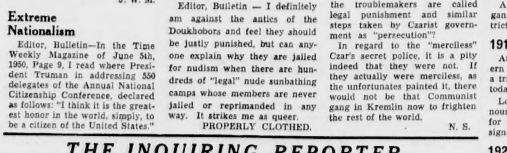
THE QUESTION:—Do you think the federal and provincial governments should prepare better protection against flood dangers?



M. Dwan J. Bowen C. Lake F. Clare R. Hart T. Martin

MOLLY DWAN, Clyde, Alta., stenographer: Yes, because it is primarily a national problem and it should not be left to small communities to fend for themselves.

JAMES C. BOWEN, 9648-103 street, salesman: I think they should do all that is reasonably possible. The matter should be given graver consideration. Then I would feel that the situation would be in very good hands.

C. E. LAKE, 11515-84 street, salesman: Unfortunately, floods cannot always be foreseen. But at various points that have been known to have floods, it's certainly a matter for the governments to do what they can to stop it happening again. This way the extensive losses could be avoided.

F. G. CLARE, 12223-127 street, office manager: Yes, of course they should. Bitter experience has proved that with present inadequate protection floods continue to happen time and time again.

R. L. M. HART, 10731-126 street, manager: Yes, I do. A matter such as flood prevention is entirely out of the hands of individuals, who have few means of protecting themselves and their property.

T. W. C. MARTIN, 10967-125 street, assistant manager: There most definitely should be better protection. I feel that there are many areas that lay themselves open to floods. The governments should investigate these areas and make their findings known to would-be settlers.

What's This About Cowboys Being New?

Robert Ruark

I am just a mite amazed at all the furor over the children's sudden seizure of Hopalong Cassidy and the other Thespian buckaroos as minor deities today, as if the game of cowboy and Injun was something they just thought up to fit television. This cowboy and Injun stuff has been going on for ages, and the popular personification of the cowpoke has always drawn big at the box office.

When I was a youngun we worshipped at the shrine of William S. Hart, a two-gun type with a rock-hard face and an invincible trigger finger. Mr. Hart made several million golden, income-tax-proof dollars out of his ability to look as sad as Buster Keaton, and as grim as Gromyko. We bought him purely as himself, not as an actor.

We did not have the television set and the radio, then, to spread him around the nation, nor was there the same emphasis on the merchandizing tie-in. But there was the Friday night serial at the local movie, and it was a childhood rite to sit through the thrillers three or four times, soaking up every mannerism of the heroes.

Hart Followed By Tom Mix

After Mr. Hart became slightly passe there arrived a hook-nosed hero named Tom Mix, and with him a handsome young chap named Fred Thompson, who died at the flush of his success. Thompson rode magnificently, and did, I believe, as much to make a star of a horse as anyone.

Two of the richest operators in Hollywood today are Gene Autry and Roy Rogers, mere neophytes to the field of horse-kissing and wooden nobility, and they considerably precede Hoppy as an idol of the young.

Mr. William Boyd, Cassidy's off-screen personality, merely has been able to impinge sharply on the children by a happy clause in early picture contracts which gave him rights to a then-unborn monster called television.

Despite his late-blooming jackpot, I doubt if his earnings are caught up to those of Autry and Rogers, or even to the late Mix and Hart, who made their dough when money was real.

There is a period in the life of most every child when he wishes to be a fireman, a soldier, Tarzan of the Apes, a policeman, a major-league ballplayer, or, lately, an atomic scientist. But the cowboy stage, I believe, has always dominated the greater portion of Junior's formative years, for the cowhand exemplifies the basic exciting simplicity that is most appealing to the kids.

The boy-sized cyclotron and the atomic rifle and the toy jetplane are okay, I suppose, but they are a bunch too lofty for most little boys. A pistol says boom, boom, and the Injuns whoop, and the villain always has a big mustache, and the horses gallop, and if they have an ol' girl in the picture she is just an adjunct to the horse, and there is none of that mushy "I love ya, I kissin' that the grown folk fancy. Cowboy clothes are the fanciest costume of all, and they just make a youngster feel glamorous, even in the living room.

The cowboy is as impervious to time as dramas about the Civil War, and I don't know why they make such a fuss over him, all of a sudden.

Pearson's Recent Speech Important

Canada's minister of external affairs, Lester Pearson, made, in other day, one of the most important speeches of his career.

He told Parliament that Canada is solidly behind Trygve Lie's 10-point peace program to end the cold war.

Most of the papers buried that good news on inside pages. Yet only a few days before these same newspapers had given President Truman's fierce attack on Russia front-page play.

The real meaning of Mr. Truman speech was that the U.S. government was saying "nothing doing" to the same peace plan which Mr. Pearson later hailed with strong approval.

Let us imagine what would have happened had either Truman, Stalin or Attlee made precisely the same speech that our own Pearson made. The whole atmosphere of hate and fear would have been instantly.

If Attlee had made that speech, Britain would have regained by one stroke the moral leadership which she abdicated in the past few years.

If Truman had made that speech, the United States could have regained something that she has regained since Roosevelt's death—the positive initiative in the cause of world democracy.

If Stalin had made and really meant that speech, fathers and mothers could go to bed without looking at the faces of their sleeping children and wondering how many more years of life remain for them.

Spirit, Not Letter Needed

The crux of the secretary-general's 10-point peace plan is that the Big Three founders of the UN should begin to apply the spirit rather than the dead letter of their obligations to UN.

Year after year, as I have watched the UN in action, I have said to myself: "If only ONE of the Big Three was heart and soul for UN, how the world situation would change in the twinkling of an eye."

By that I mean that, if either Britain or U.S. or Russia really put its heart and worked with all its might and main to make UN work. But to date not one of them has done so.

Uncle Joe acts like a crude kid on a baseball field who walks off the field every time an umpire's decision goes against him.

Uncle Sam Owns Bat

Uncle Sam owns the ball field, almost all the bats and balls, and in moments of pique switches them to other playing fields.

John Bull never seems to be quite sure whether he wants to be in that baseball game at all, and sometimes lets it be known that he would prefer to be back playing cricket, where he really knows his way around.

The deadlock over China is a ludicrous example of what's wrong with the world today. Russia has acted with customary crudity in walking out time after time, while Chiang's men are still allowed to speak and vote for China. But what will history say of the attitude of the U.S. in this matter?

The U.S. has no moral right to keep Chiang's men in power in UN when they are long since out of power in the country they are supposed to represent.

It is time, too, as the 10-point peace plan says, that all other excluded governments were admitted to UN—Finland, Austria, Italy, Ireland, Portugal, Albania, Hungary, Rumania, Jordan.

Blind Orphan Gives Sweets To the Sweet

EAST GRINSTEAD, Sussex, Eng., June 21. — (AP) — Roger Williams and his special strawberry kept their date with Princess Margaret yesterday.

Roger is six, an orphan, and blind. He lives at the East Grinstead home for children and has a little garden patch of his own.

Six weeks ago Roger learned that Princess Margaret planned to visit the home. He decided to make her a gift of the biggest, reddest, sweetest strawberry ever raised in East Grinstead.

He put up a scarecrow to them with netting. Then he prayed for warm, sunny weather.

Today Princess Margaret came. "Do you like strawberries?" Roger asked anxiously.

"I love them," she said.

Carefully Roger pulled away the netting. His sensitive fingers reached for his prize strawberry. Gently he picked it, wrapped it in a leaf and gave it to Princess Margaret.

Triumphantly Roger told her: "I knew it would be ready in time."

Princess Margaret patted Roger's head, thanked him and walked on, carrying the biggest, reddest, sweetest strawberry ever raised in East Grinstead.

JACOBY on Canasta

By OSWALD JACOBY

After you have played Canasta a few times, you understand the importance and the value of keeping a large number of cards in your hand. This is particularly important when you are trying to pick up a frozen discard pile.

For example, suppose you have 20 cards in your hand. It might be fairly simple for you to hold eight pairs and four odd cards. Since there are only 11 denominations altogether (aces, kings, queens, . . . down to fours), you are a heavy favorite to get the pack quickly when you hold as many as eight different pairs. Your opponent can discard safely only from three denominations; and the odds are that he either will not hold enough safe cards or will not know which cards are safe.

Now consider the other extreme. You hold only three cards in your hand. At most you can have but one pair, and you may not have even that. It is almost impossible for you to get the pack since even if you are lucky enough to have a pair, the opponent at your right is not likely to hit upon that particular denomination to discard.

The advantage of holding many cards applies also when you are trying to find a safe discard. With 20 cards in your hand, you are bound to have a wide choice. Assuming that you know what is safe, you will probably be in a position to throw a safe card. With only three cards in your hand, you may be helpless even though you are quite sure which cards are safe and which are unsafe. You may hold only dangerous cards, and you will be compelled to throw one of them.

I have taken extreme cases to show the general principle. Usually you will not hold as many as 20 cards or as few as three. But the general principle holds good. The more cards you hold, the better chance you have to get the pack and the easier it is for you to find a safe discard.

★ ★ ★

Q—Is it permissible to play wild cards alone? For example, suppose I had six kings started towards a canasta. Could I play a wild card alone on the meld of kings to complete the canasta?

A—Yes. That is a perfectly legal meld. You cannot start a new meld with wild cards alone, but once a meld is properly started you are allowed to add a single wild card to it.

Hover Of Ciro's Wants Subsidy

Owner Claims Nightclub Main Tourist Meeting Place

By Virginia MacPherson
Exclusive to The Bulletin

HOLLYWOOD, June 21—(UP)—H. D. Hover, Owner of Ciro's, said yesterday he's trying to swing a deal to put Hollywood swankiest nightclub on relief.

It's losing money with every steak, he said, and he's asking Los Angeles County to help him support it.

"Why not," Hover said. "This is not such a fantastic idea. The county helps support the Hollywood Bowl, which is run by independent interests.

"They do it because the Bowl is a prestige attraction for southern California. Well, so is Ciro's.

"We are a great tourist attraction. We present the power-house names in show business: Sophie Tucker . . . Danny Thomas . . . Ella Logan . . . Martin and Lewis. This is a powerful addition to the lure of this town."

It is also a powerful expensive item in the Hover budget. He cannot afford to keep it up much longer, he said.

WANTS SUBSIDY

And he thinks it would be nice if the board of supervisors would appropriate a certain sum each year to help him out.

"About $25,000 would do it," Hover said. "Yes, that would do it very nicely.

"Our big-name celebrities pull plenty of tourists into this town," he said. "By keeping Ciro's in the black the county could boost profits for industries like hotels, taxicabs, department stores and specialty shops."

Actually, Hover went on, Ciro's is about the only super-exciting thing Southern California has to offer star-dazzled travellers.

OTHER SPOTS CLOSED

"The movie studios are virtually closed to the out-of-towner," he said. "Our beaches are not comparable to those of the east or other sections of the country.

"Even the climate—at its best—is only as good as that of other resorts in season. And we don't have any boardwalks where the visitors can run into friends from home."

Judy Garland Ready to Talk In Few Days

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON
Exclusive to The Bulletin

HOLLYWOOD, June 21—(UP)—Judy Garland sent word today that she will be ready "in a day or two" to tell why she tried to kill herself by hacking at her throat with a jagged piece of glass.

"She's in a state of emotional hysteria now," her agent, Carleton Alsop, said. "She couldn't explain why she did it if she wanted to.

"But in a day or two she'll be ready to talk. Judy's the bouncy type. She'll snap out of this in a hurry."

REPORT DENIED

But friends and officials at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feared that the doe-eyed star's emotional and physical ills might be too deep-seated to be overcome quickly.

Worried over her career, Miss Garland dashed into a bathroom Monday, broke a glass and tried to slash her throat.

Dr. Francis Ballard, her doctor, denied that the star had tried to take her own life. He said the injuries to her throat were only scratches.

MARRIAGE FIZZLES

He insisted, in a report to Hollywood police, that Miss Garland's act was intended more to attract attention than to inflict bodily harm upon herself. His report to police was listed as a "miscellaneous injury" case and officials said they planned no investigation.

However, Ballard admitted that he'd been treating Miss Garland "for several months during which time she has suffered several emotional reactions."

The 27-year-old singing star began a brilliant movie career 15 years ago in a short. She was at her peak in 1944 when her three-year marriage to composer Dave Rose fizzled out.

MOBILE, Ala.—(UP)—A car smashup in 1948 left Buddy Berger in a wheel chair and started him on a hobby of building model boats. Today, he has 50 in his living room.

FAREWELL for Dr. John W. Lauck, 75, of Maple Hill, Kans., retiring after 52 years of rural medical practice is given by three-months-old Cheryl Marie Oliver, 4003rd and last baby he delivered. Holding baby is her mother, Mrs. Robert Oliver. Friends and parents held a giant farewell party honoring the doctor on his retirement.

'Bargains' In Babies Related Before Court

NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—The story of a baby brought for $100, offered for sale at $2,000 and then marked down to $1,750 was told in court yesterday.

The story was told by witnesses in the trial of two lawyers and a woman on charges of conspiracy and violating the state baby-placement law.

The defendants are Irwin Slater, 58, Harry Wolfson, 37, and Mrs. Bess Bernard, 44.

The witnesses' names all are being withheld by order of the court.

The first instalment of the story was told by a 25-year-old Brooklyn woman. She said that in March, 1949, she and her mother talked to Slater about placing her five-month-old child for adoption.

Slater and Wolfson visited her, had her sign a consent paper, and took the baby. The following day, she said, Slater returned, she signed more papers and he gave her $100.

PRICE CUT

Another Brooklyn woman took up the story. She testified that Slater offered to sell her a baby for $2,000 but she told him she could not afford his price.

Slater finally agreed to sell an infant girl to her for $1,750, she said. When she got the child, the witness said, she had her examined by a doctor. He said the infant was suffering from malnutrition and rickets.

Good Trade Year Ahead

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe looked into the future last night and said he saw a good year ahead for Canada.

In a speech prepared for delivery on the CBC broadcast "The Nation's Business," he said 1950 will be an even better year than 1949.

"There is reason to believe," he said, "that we will continue to sell Canadian products abroad without any serious drop in volume."

TRADE FREER

There also was reason to "hope," he added, that "before too long" Canadian trade with the United States will be "unrestricted and in close balance."

There still was a gap in exports and imports between Canada and the sterling area, but there seemed to be "little reason to doubt" that it would be closed before the U.S. Marshall Aid program ended in 1952.

Uses Mode·n Science

WALPOLE, Mass.—(UP)—The willow twig divining rod is obsolete, according to Joseph Pruell, who claims to have discovered water for more than 50 drought-stricken New England farmers. Pruell, a machine shop foreman, does his divining with a pocket-sized device he built for himself out of metal and plastic. He says it operates on the same principle as a mine detector or Geiger counter.

Protestants In Italy Ask Equal Religious Rights

ROME, June 21—(AP)—Italy's 100,000 Protestants began negotiations with the government yesterday for an agreement guaranteeing them the same rights as Roman Catholics.

Dr. Guglielmo Del Pesco, president of the Italian Protestant Federation of Churches, said he began discussion with the chief of the cults section of the interior ministry.

He had demanded that an article of the post-war Italian constitution which guarantees religious liberty be called to the attention of police officials all over Italy.

Inside Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

HOLLYWOOD,—(AP)—Southern California's "little people"—dwarfs and midgets—have been busy in a movie the last several days. By grapevine, word spread through Midgetdom that they were needed to people a Johnny Weissmuller picture called "Pygmy Island."

Along came Marion Nichols, a produce company bookkeeper, to don a leopard skin and body make-up. Little Angelo Rosalito deserted his news-stand. "The world's smallest cowboy fiddler," 32-inch Buster Resmondo, joined up with his diminutive wife Hazel.

The little actors' pay was $22.23 a day.

One day 65 worked—all wearing black wigs, the women in gay sarongs, some with animal-tooth and bone necklaces. Ordinarily, Waine Johnson works on a ranch. His little wife Lillie is the cook. Mary Brown is a bookbinder. Jeanette Fern dances in night clubs as "The Miniature Sally Rand."

OLD STUFF

For one of them this was old stuff. Billy Curtis—four feet, two inches tall and 42 years old—has been in pictures 12 years. He said about 15 little people earn a regular living in films. Most of the work is standing in for child actors while electricians rig lights and the youngsters get their required schooling.

For featured-actor roles, like his present one as a pygmy leader, Billy receives $750 a week. Between such assignments he stands in and doubles in dangerous stunts for the children. Bobby Driscoll appetly plunged 36 feet from a teetering beam into a firemen's net in "The Window." Actually it was Billy, who says he got $1,500 for the leap.

Chiang Appeals To Countrymen

TAIPEI, Formosa, June 21—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek appealed yesterday to Chinese living overseas to help overthrow the Communists who have seized China.

"Soviet aggression knows no bounds," declared the Nationalist leader in a special overseas broadcast.

Chiang thanked Chinese abroad for the work they had done in the last six months "for the protection of the Republic of China against Communism and Soviet Russia."

Jets Won't Replace Props For Some Years, Says Briton

By Bert L. Marsh
Exclusive to The Bulletin

LONDON, June 21—(BUP)—Sir Miles Thomas said yesterday that it would be several years before jets replaced propellers on airliners and that where Britain was concerned, Canada's highly-vaunted Avro jetliner didn't have a chance.

Sir Miles, chairman of British Overseas Airways Corporation, added in an exclusive interview with British United Press that:

Britain would not try converting existing types of airliners to jet propulsion; the United States lagged far behind in jet production and would have trouble catching up; BOAC had started pouring more money into its Montreal establishment, but had no plans to rehire the hundreds of Canadians it fired to save dollars; the Montreal-built Canadair Four airliner operated so economically "that most valuable aircraft" had saved the government-controlled airline tens of thousands of dollars; and suggestions of a trans-Atlantic "tramp plane" freight service comparable to the job of tramp steamers were wishful thinking.

LONG WAY OFF

Sir Miles said the day was a long way off when passengers would fly in jet-powered airliners from Montreal to Britain in half the time it now takes.

"The Trans-Atlantic route," he said, "is one that needs a good deal of pioneering—and the pioneering should be done on the routes. It's most difficult, especially in the Atlantic, because you need to know weather conditions far more completely than they're known now. We first want to get experience with jets on shorter routes. First, we'll try out the British-made Comet to Cairo, India and the Far East and see how it makes out."

The BOAC chairman, a burly six-footer, tapped on his desk to emphasize that "the Comet is far ahead of anything else in the world in jet passenger planes and has a lead of about five years. It doesn't look like the United States will get in on the market for sometime to come, either."

STATE BACKING

He said there were dozens of considerations involved in American entry into a race for the world's first jet-liner market, among them the fact that U.S. producers had to have their financial positions assured.

He suggested they had their government behind them in an all-out bid to lead the field. Sir Miles said that was why Britain would not buy Canada's Avro jet-liner—because of BOAC's "Buy British" policy from now on.

Sir Miles dismissed as impractical suggestions that major British or North American airlines try to convert their presently-conventional planes into jets and save themselves part of their huge capital investments.

"There would have to be a complete redesigning job because a succesful jet has to be designed from the drawing board upwards," he said.

WOULDN'T PAY

Asked if the day might soon come when "tramp planes" ferried heavy freight across the Atlantic in the same way as tramp steamers sail the ocean, Sir Miles said, "That's not economically feasible."

"On those long Atlantic crossings you need the very best aircraft and have to think in terms of aircraft utilization," he said. "It wouldn't pay, and airlines are in this business to make money."

Work, Appetite Help Fort Man Reach 100

By Ron Smith
Bulletin Correspondent

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, June 21—James Masters of Fort Saskatchewan reached his goal today as he embarked cheerfully on his 100th year.

Setting the century mark as his target some years ago, Mr. Masters is proud of his achievement and is also looking forward eagerly to the future.

Shorty, as he is known here, is a popular figure in Fort Saskatchewan district where he has lived for 46 years.

Born near Colbourne, Ont., he farmed there before moving west in 1904 and settling on a farm near the Fort.

With the exception of a few years spent in Edmonton he has lived in this district the whole of his time in the west.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Still in good health with the exception of being hard of hearing, he has only recently given up gardening and now devotes most of his time to entertaining the children on the farm of Hector and Fred Simmons where he now lives.

At the instatance of the Simmons family he gave up caring for the Fort Saskatchewan cemetery at the age of 95. While under his care the cemetery was considered to be one of the best kept for its size in Northern Alberta.

Less than 10 years ago he handled a four-horse team and digger in taking the potato crop off several acres.

He is of the opinion that hard work plays a big part in longevity.

Though the Simmons farm is several miles from Fort Saskatchewan Mr. Masters manages to make occasional trips to town to renew acquaintances. He is keenly interested in progress and activities of the town.

MODERATION

Still a moderate smoker and one suit for women, which may be backless.

Men older than 14 must wear "slips or drawers" beneath their suits or trunks—but only on mixed bathing days. One regulation states "men's costumes may be lowered to the waist—if held by belts."

Another grievance held by swimmers is a rule forbidding them to sunbathe on the surrounding heath unless fully clothed.

Last week swimmers staged a protest at the pool. Now they plan more drastic measures—a march to the county hall in Westminster.

Said 35-year-old schoolmaster Kenneth Newton, "We look upon the march as striking a blow for freedom."

A petition which has been circulated among Hampstead residents, carries several hundred signatures.

While the wheels of officialdom move slowly, the bathers, led by 24-year-old Mrs. Yvonne Goodman, will attempt to force the issue in a manner reminiscent of Lady Godiva.

Torrid Spell Reaches End After Record

Warm weather will continue in Edmonton and vicinity but the peak temperatures of the current torrid spell are past, the weatherman announced coolly this morning.

Today's forecast calls for a high of 80 as compared with yesterday's record-busting 88—hottest June 20 on record.

More light scattered showers are forecast for the northern part of the province following yesterday's thunder and lightning rain-spats which saw only a trace of moisture fall on sun-baked Edmonton.

RAIN GOD'S BEST

Best the rain gods could do was a 1/6 inch fall over a small area around Whitecourt.

The weatherman called yesterday's sizzling heat, "88 weather" with temperature soaring to that figure at Grande Prairie, Penhold, Coronation, Calgary and Lethbridge as well as here. Medicine Hat went the rest of the province a few degrees better and baked under a towering 92 degrees—highest in the west.

Cooler air moving in from the west is expected to meet with cool air from east which has already brought temperatures in northern Saskatchewan down to the sixties.

SLIGHTLY BELOW

However temperatures here are expected to remain only slightly below those of past few days with a high of 80 degrees forecast again tomorrow.

Sleepy-time temperature in the city last night dropped to a 54-degree low at 4:30 a.m.

General forecast is cloudy with a few clear periods, winds northwest at 15 m.p.h.

Time Out

Blowhard Beddoes' Bits and Balderdash:

On this last longest day in the year maybe you'll get a yuk out of the following soccer tale which Jim (Vancouver Sun) Kearney related recently:

Glasgow's Hampden Park is the scene of many a merry battle when Celtic and Rangers play. Celtic has the Catholic following, Rangers the Protestant partisans. And anything goes, with some games being halted 20-30 times while the police break up the battles in the stands.

If you're in Hampden, they say, you have to pull for one side or the other. There is no auch thing as being neutral.

But one day a spectator was seen to remain unexcited as the game ebbed and flowed. When asked by a Ranger fan about which side he was on, he said, "Neither. I'm just here to enjoy the game."

To this he drew the only possible comment from the Ranger fanatic: "You're a bloody atheist, that's what you are."

USING famous drop-kick, Francois Miquet sends Al 'Mr. Murder' Mills reeling back against ropes in last night's first main event at Stock Pavilion. Miquet pinned Mills for first fall seconds after this picture was taken. However, Mills won the match after Frenchman sustained back injury falling out of ring.

Mills Gets Lucky Break When Miquet Gets Injured

By Ernie Fedoruk

If any rassler is going to defeat Al 'Mr. Murder' Mills, he should have the aid of six other grapplers—as in last week's battle royal at the Stock Pavilion.

Last night Mills added another to an already long list of wrestlers he has defeated, getting the verdict over Frenchman Francois Miquet in the first main event at the Cow Palace.

The participants in the second main event — Lou 'The Body' Newman and Laverne Baxter—both were disqualified.

The special event, Joe Corbett vs. Stu Hart, and the preliminary between John Bartolevich and Steve Beliman both resulted in draws.

Miquet was well on his way to defeating the Damrose mauler but he injured himself falling out of the ring about the 20 minute mark and was unable to continue.

The likeable Frenchman copped the first fall at 14:05, using the flying head scissors hold, a drop kick and body press.

Even promoter Al Oeming found the going difficult in the other main event. Oeming made his debut into the ring after Baxter and Newman bot got out of hand.

Baxter then took after Oeming (who was already bothered by one of the poorest crowds to date) and commenced using his choking tactics on him.

Davis, Lothian Hot Shots

Bill Davis and Bill Lothian each shot two perfect 25s at the Edmonton Gun club range last night. George Dame recorded a 24, one better than Babe Gauther, Dr. Bill Archibald and Chuck Porter.

Henceforth the EGC will be open Tuesdays and Thursdays, the Friday night shoots being so poorly patronized that it isn't worthwhile to operate on those evenings. Traps will be shot on Tuesday, skeet on Thursday.

Whiting Near To No-Hitter

RCAF shut out Fire Department 5-0 in one of the best games played to date.

It was Whiting's superb pitching that sparked Airmen to the win. Catcher Ross Joseph and right-fielder Dave Ross led the winners at the plate. Both connected for a pair of safties in three trips.

EX-PRECISION BOSS CLAIMS HE RESIGNED

Monty Montgomery, former manager of Precision Senior Men's Fastball league squad, resigned his position as manager of the club.

Earlier it was stated that Montgomery "was relieved of his position as manager because he lacked fire and hustle."

He told The Bulletin last night that it was the team, and not himself, that lacked hustle.

Montgomery also said that differences between players and team officials was one of the reasons for his resignation.

Argos Jam Football Flyways to Edmonton

Last night manager Al Anderson announced that Frank Morris, Argo captain last fall, had signed an Eskimo contract. His signature brings the number of ex-Argonaut names on Edmonton forms to five, others being Bill Briggs, Mike King, Don Durno and Doug Pyzer.

Morris is a guard going at something like 240 pounds. He is expected to arrive shortly with Durno, a tackle, and Pyzer, a halfback.

King, a backfielder, attended spring training here and has since returned to Toronto to arrange for moving his family to the west. Briggs, a 25-year-old utility lineman, arrived in Edmonton recently.

Two more Texas Christian University products — Don Narrell and Morris Bailey—will take up residence here later this week. They will join Lindy Berry and Doug Brightwell, two TCU alumnae who crossed the Eskimo horizon last week.

WOUTERS WINS QUIET FIGHT

MONTREAL, June 21.—(CP). — Canadian middleweight champion Roy Wouters of Montreal, formerly of Vancouver, earned a 10-round unanimous decision over Billy Fifield of Toronto last night in the semi-final of a boxing card.

Wouters weighed 158½ and Fifield 161. The bout was a non-title affair.

It was a slow-moving bout with Wouters the aggressor throughout. The crowd continually called for the fighters to mix it.

IF HE COMES

Touchdowners Might Hear Waterfield

If Bob Waterfield stops here on his way to Jasper for a fishing jaunt, he may be prevailed upon to address members of the Edmonton Eskimo ouchdown Club.

Touchdown president Jerry Searight said that he would attempt to line the renowned Los Angeles Rams quarterback up for a rally if possible. Others who might take part in such a shindig would be Lindy Berry and Doug Brightwell, recent grid arrivals from Texas Christian University.

Class Tells on First Day Of Lacombe Tournament

By Stan Moher
Bulletin Sports Editor

LACOMBE, June 21—At best the word class when applied to sport, is vague as to meaning. But regardless of the meaning teams having the habit of getting there fastest with the mostest of this commodity saw to it that Lacombe's annual two day baseball tournament got away yesterday without a single upset marking play.

The big three of the tourney—Sceptre, Indian Head, and California Mohawks—swept to easy triumphs. As well, manager Ed Tanner's Lacombe team and Ralph Phelps' Alaskan Command aggregation survived elimination. What's more they were never out of a high gallop at any time.

To complete a rundown of the victors on opening days it's necessary to fill out with Stettler, Edmonton CNR Juniors and Innisfail. Innisfail got by the first round cheaply when Amber Valley failed to show up for the tournament.

NO TIGHT GAMES

Actually there wasn't a tightly played game as the 15-team field started nibbling at the $3,750 money scheduled to be cut up in earnest at about 9 o'clock tonight. The scoreboard carried elsewhere in the sports section, will nail this down, at a glance. Most of the thousands of fans in attendance at various times throughout the sweltering hot day hardly could wait for the Eaton-Sceptre game, on the last draw.

But when the Saskatchewan rivals finally came to grips there wasn't much to it. In fact Sceptre, which cut off the big slice at the Camrose tourney last week closed out their Eaton rivals, 9 to 2 in seven innings.

Of the seven games run off, no fewer than five were called after seven innings, courtesy local rule that permits same if there's seven runs or more separating the combatants.

Most humiliating setback of the day was administered to Leduc's Mike Mack, Denny Smith and others by California Mohawks. Final count was 18-0, with Umpire Harry Ornest calling it off after six dreary, bases-on-balls-filled frames.

Lloyd Bradley, Stettler; Jim Saville, Stettler; Ed Tanner, Lacombe manager; and Roger Berlando, Lacombe, were a quartet of ex-Big Four leaguers to pop up yesterday.

OFF THE NUT

First day's operations moved along very smoothly, a tribute to the fine organization set up many weeks ago by Gordon Sweet, with Jackson, Jack McKinley, Bert Ford and their mates of the Lions club, tournament sponsors.

And, unlike the Camrose tourney, this one promises to be a financial success. Not that there will be any jackpot. But the talk last night was that the $7,000 nut no longer was much cause for headache.

As Bert Ford put it during the Eston-Sceptre skirmish, while looking over the crowd on the hillside, cheap or otherwise, "barring rain we'll do much better tomorrow. And who knows we may even make enough to pay for all these new bleachers."

The draw is top-heavy in one half, where Indian Head, Mohawks and Alaskan Command are grouped. This leaves Sceptre of the so-called strong teams, all by itself, with the road to the final not too hazardous looking.

SKI MEET POSTPONED DUE TO WASHOUTS

Canada's final ski meet of the season, the Brewster Memorial race, scheduled for last Sunday at the Columbia Icefields, was postponed until a later date due to bad road conditions.

It was reported that two bridges on the road leading to the icefields are washed out at the moment. It is hoped that the road will be open by the end of the month.

The event is a controlled downhill race with an approximate distance of two miles and a drop of some 2,500 feet. The course is one of the most spectacular to be found anywhere in the world and attracts many name skiers.

Edmontonians planning to participate in the event are Edmonton Ski Club's Bruce McGavin and Jim Proudfoot.

It's A Fur Piece

LACOMBE.—It's quite a hop, geographically or any other way you care to measure it, from Ebbetts Field to the Lacombe baseball tournament.

Nevertheless, I picked up the threads of a situation here yesterday that had its beginnings in the dressing room of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Ebbetts Field, of an afternoon last October.

New York's win-confident Yankees had just knocked off the baffled Dodgers for the fourth time in five starts to cop the World Series. And not many minutes after the final out had been made I hoofed into the Dodger powder room.

There I encountered, among other disillusioned Dodgers, one group comprising Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe, Roy Campanella and Larry Doby, all Negros, of course.

First three named were full fledged members of the Brooklyns. Doby with Cleveland Indians of the other league, had dropped into console his colored friends on the Dodgers.

★ ★ ★ ★

A Southpaw Named Jenkins

And I could hear them conversing "in this game if you can't cook an ear into the affairs of others pretty frequently you might as well go to selling apples on the nearest street corner."

It turned out that they were heading south the next day for an exhibition tour, through the Virginias and other states.

Even now I can hear Robinson needling the others to get "ready as quick as you can. We gotta be in Norfolk in two days."

And I can remember Doby, who was dressed in the height of taste, nodding eagerly. So also Newcombe, who was just dressed and Campanella.

They made it to Norfolk on time. But for that they made it to Newport News, too, as I found out here a few hours back from big Jim Williams, manager of the all-colored Indian Head team.

Williams and some of his pals, including Boyd (Lefty) Jenkins, a member of the Indian Head squad, following a 5-2 triumph counted by Robinson, Campanella and the other tourists and a Newport News in the afternoon, the team rushed to Robinson's Norfolk for a night contest.

This time the major leaguers, with the gigantic Newcombe throwing the curves and such, were humbled by exactly the same count.

And it was the 24-year-old Jenkins who put on the hobbles.

Williams Was With 'Em All

Jim Williams out of Baltimore, proved a very interesting and informative gentleman of baseball's old school—the school that before the advent of the Negro into organized baseball.

Pitcher and outfielder in his playing days, the big fellow whose very smile serves to display a lot of gold choppers, travelled the eastern seaboard, especially, with the famed Homestead Greys.

He played with or against almost every colored baseball immortal you could put the finger on, Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, George (Cool Papa) Bell, Lefty Beverley, Larry Doby—right down the list on a lot of guys who were great ball tossers, even if the news didn't get around much until Branch Rickey included some of them in. They say that Williams, whose appearances in the active role are few and far between these days, went in as a pinch hitter at the Camrose tourney and banged two of the loudest fouls in the history of the old west.

Sure, he struck out on the next pitch. But whose building this guy up, anyway?

Like I said in the beginning, it's quite a long way from Brooklyn to Lacombe. But it's an even longer trek from Jacksonville, Florida, where Williams recruited his team to represent Indian Head.

"We're going to have plenty of fun up here this summer," he assured me. "In fact, ah think ah'll buy a farm and stay in this country."

UKRAINA JUNIORS WIN 3-2

Missing Penalty Shot Costs South Side Tie

Missing a penalty shot with three minutes left to play, South Side landed on the short end of a 3-2 score last night in an Edmonton and District Junior Football (soccer) game at Clarke Stadium.

Mike Schwec counted twice for the victors while teammate Hatala accounted for the winning marker. South Side scorers were Ron Donnelly and Roberts.

With Ukraina holding a one-point advantage, South Side's centre-half-back Vince Christensen, muffed a chance to tie up the match as he failed to make his penalty shot count.

Minutes before the half-way mark, Schwec scored the initial goal with a hard drive from the right side of the net to send Ukraina one up. But within two minutes after play resumed Donnelly tied it up with ground ball on a pass from Oram.

Schwec then notched his second tally and Hatala gave Ukraina a two-goal lead several minutes later.

The South Siders fought back in vain but were only able to score one goal, Roberts blasting the hemp on a neat pass from Donnelly.

South Side: Lindon; V. Martin, J. Martin; Kozak, Christensen, Smith; Donnelly, Offiel, Roberts, Nessell, Oram.

LOCAL JUNIOR MAY PLAY FOR STREATHAM

The services of another young Edmonton hockey player are being sought after.

Doug Campbell, ex-Canadian and Wetaskiwin junior, may land a spot on Streatham of the English National Hockey league.

Streatham, who last year won the league title, boasts of such players as ex-Flyer goalie Keith Woodall, Winnipeg's Mike Yaschuck, and Eddie Miller of Edmonton.

Campbell played left wing on Wetaskiwin's junior squad last season and was one of the Northern Alberta Junior Hockey league's top scorers.

Two Birds Finish Race

Only two birds finished the Gateway Racing Pigeon club's recent race from Saskatoon to Edmonton the same day that it started. George Mayor's pigeon flew the 200-mile distance in 1,036.91 yards per minute while Harold Alcock placed second with 1,031.38 yards per minute.

A special prize, donated by Val Berg, was won by Mayor.

Giants Clip Cardinals' Wings

NEW YORK, June 21 — (CP) — New York Giants at last can count a victory this season over St. Louis Cardinals of the National league.

It happened last night in the Giants' home park when the Polo Grounders used Wes Westrum's eighth home run — it came in the eighth inning of a night fixture — to snap a 2-2 tie and gain a 3-2 triumph.

The Cards had beaten the Giants six straight.

DODGERS LEAD

Brooklyn Dodgers took over undisputed possession of first place by defeating Cincinnati Reds as St. Louis Cards lost to the Giants. Gil Hodges hit a grand-slam homer in the third for the Dodgers.

Chicago Cubs tied together three singles for their winning run in the 10th as they clipped Boston Braves in the opener of a two-game series before 12,334 Boston fans.

The loss was the fifth for big John Sain, who was after his 10th victory of the season. Bob Rush, tall Cub righthander, gave five hits as he racked up his eighth decision against five losses.

The Pirates' defence collapsed in the sixth and seventh innings as Philadelphia Phillies came from behind to win.

Meanwhile at Cleveland Joe DiMaggio, star outfielder of the American league New York Yankees became the third active player to accumulate 2,000 hits in the major leagues.

DiMaggio, who brought 1,998 hits into last night's game against Cleveland, banged out a pair of singles in his first four times at bat to join Luke Appling of Chicago's White Sox and Wally Moses of Philadelphia Athletics as the only active performers with 2,000 or more hits.

DiMAG PAYS OFF

DiMaggio's 1,509th hit, a single in the third, scored Phil Rizzuto and Gene Woodling. His 2,000th drove in Woodling in the seventh.

Boston Red Sox defeated Chicago White Sox 5-3, before 35,578 Chicago fans behind the seven hit pitching of Ellis Kinder and Mel Parnell. The Red Sox hammered Bill Wight for ten hits in snapping their five game losing streak.

Yankees beat the Indians 8-2. Roy Sievers' first inning single was the deciding blow as St. Louis Browns took a 1-0 pitchers' battle from the A's. Ned Garver posted the victory, allowing just four hits. His rival, Lou Brissie, gave just three hits.

Little Chico Marrero of Washington Senators stopped Detroit Tigers with a four-hitter and the Senators posted a 4-2 victory to cut Detroit's American League lead to one game over New York Yankees.

NEW YORK — Willie Pep won 10 featherweight title bouts.

REFEREE GETS INTO ACT

Dauthuille Registers TKO Over Costa Rican Scrapper

MONTREAL June 21—(CP)—Laurent Dauthuille of France scored a sixth-round, technical knockout over Tuzo Portuguez of Costa Rica at a 10-round main bout on 2 boxing card here last night that even saw referee Leo Fisher throwing a few punches.

Dauthuille weighed 159½ and Portuguez 160½. A crowd of 7,000 fans contributed a gross gate of $19,280.

The donnybrook came in the fifth round when Portuguez hit the Frenchman with four low blows. When referee Fisher attempted to break the fighters and warn the Costa Rican, Portuguez struck the official with half a dozen blows. Fisher then took the matter in his own hands and went after Portuguez with a two-fisted attack.

The technical knockout, awarded to Dauthuille at the 2:38-minute mark of the sixth, came after the dusky Portuguez was bent over the ropes and appeared helpless.

The knockout was the second consecutive for the husky Frenchman. In his last fight, which grossed $44,000 here, he kayoed Steve Belloise of New York after staging a blistering attack that had the New Yorker reeling throughout.

Portuguez was in top condition as he had Dauthuille backpedalling in the first two rounds. The Costa Rican took the two rounds by a wide margin. In the third round, Portuguez was still the aggressor and opened a cut over the Frenchman's left eye. But in the closing minutes of the round, Dauthuille came through with a terrific two-handed attack to take the round.

Dauthuille took the fourth round handily after sending his opponent to the canvas for an automatic eight count.

The fifth round saw Portuguez taking over again as the aggressor, but four low blows were brought to his attention by the referee and that started the trouble. Fisher took the round away from Portuguez. When he informed the Porto Rican's handlers of the foul, one of them climbed the official and brought the crowd to its feet.

In the sixth, Dauthuille, who seemed to be suffering some pain from the low blows, regained himself and unleashed a staggering, two-fisted attack.

Allie Zack, manager of Portuguez, said after the fight that he was considering taking court action against referee Fisher for stopping the fight. He said that "at no time was Portuguez in trouble. It's his (Portuguez) style to absorb punishment and then come back on the offensive."

Promoter Raoul Godbout said that the action of the official "leaves good reason for a rematch of the two fighters."

Esks Lead Big Four Race

By DICK BEDOES

It was not strictly the sticky weather which prompted Mr. Ken Samis to remark last night: "Things is tough all over."

His observation was prompted considerably by the performance of the Dodgers (whom he owns) against the Eskimos in a Big Four Baseball league game at Renfrew Park. The Dodgers, sons of whom Samis will shortly disown, lost ignominiously 13-3.

And so the Eskimos galloped a half-length ahead of their faltering city rivals, Dodgers dropping the lead for the first time this season.

The Dodgers, who roared along like morning glories before wilting from the hot breath of the Esks on their necks, expect to take on second-string forthwith. Jimmy Hall, a shortstop from Los Angeles, will join the club in Calgary this week-end. Samis was off to Lacombe today in an effort to secure some pitching and catching talent from amongst the teams competing in that town's baseball tournament.

Among those Dodgers likely to be seeking baseball employment elsewhere shortly are shortpatcher Don Bailey and pitcher Eric Wigeland. This pair of former Junior baseball league performers faltered badly last night as the entire Dodger club drooped like a bulldog's jowls.

Bailey committed two errors and struck out twice while going hitless in four trips to the plate. The right-handed Wigeland was slaughtered early, being tagged for seven hits and 10 runs in two and two-third innings.

The slick-fielding Eskimos had more energy for their wheelbase last night than they've had thus for this year. They were leading 10-0 after three innings and 13-0 after six.

Everybody in the Eskimo igloo got a base hit, with the exception of leadoff batter Ray Enjalan. The best he could muster was a pair of walks in the six times he faced Dodger pitching.

Eskimo power at the plate was spread around somewhat, Jack McGill bagging a home run, pitcher Dick Lowe collecting two triples, David Brockie getting one three-base smash, and doubles going to Ed Morris and Bob Lillis.

Fred Granato, hanging onto the Esk third base-spot by his fingernails, kept himself on the payroll a while longer by pounding out three Chinese hits, all of them singles. His three-for-five led all batsmen.

It was evident early that it wasn't Wigeland's night to shine. In the first inning his control was spotty, causing him to issue a walk, a wild pitch and his catcher Barl Robertshaw to allow two runs to passed balls. That mixture, combined with Cliff Johnston's single and a miscue by Bailey, shoved Esks ahead 2-0.

★ ★ ★

After scoring twice in the second, Eskimos chased Wigeland with a six-run barrage in the third. McGill powered over the Cub's sign in right field to open the cannonading, following which Morris, Granato, Brockie, Lillis and Johnston all contributed baseknocks.

Big Wig went in to fraternize with soap and water about then and Vern Callihan came along in relief. Callihan allowed three more runs and eight more hits over the rest of the route.

Lowe worked carefully and effectively for the winners. He struck out six and gave up the same number of hits. The goodlooking righthander had a shutout going into the eighth but lost it on an error by catcher Morris, two walks and Tom Kemp's double to right.

Cards Score Seventh Win

League-leading Clegg and Case Cardinals scored a close 4-3 win over Canadians yesterday at Diamond park in city juvenile baseball league play.

Both squads used a pair of hurlers but each team was only able to garner four hits.

It was the Lou Holmes-coached Cardinals' seventh win against a single defeat.

They are Jimmy Loreno, 22, halfback last season with Hamilton Wildcats, and Alan Wiley, 22, centre last year with Sarnia Imperials.

Buffs on Rampage, Rocking Puritys 14-6

CALGARY, June 21.—The powerladen Calgary Buffaloes exploded for 13 hits last night, to run up a lop-sided 14-6 score against Purity 99 and take a firmer grip on third place in the Big Four Baseball League standings.

Playing in Buffalo Stadium, the Buffs showed their heavy artillery to the crowd of 1,220 fans as they belted two Purity hurlers for three home runs and ten singles, sewing up the game with a tremendous seven-run rally after two men were out in the seventh inning.

Vince Pesky's herd displayed an abundance of strength in all departments as every man on the club, with the exception of catcher Jerry Dobson connected safely at least once, and the team committed only two errors to Purity's five.

Right-hander Joe Murphy was the only Buffalo hurler to earn himself the win. He gave up nine hits, walked three and struck out three in the process.

Saddled for the loss was lefty Mike Johnson, bespectacled Puritan hurler who was pulled after three and two-thirds innings in favor of Arno Fernandez.

Gardella Again Threatens Suit

NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—Organized baseball was threatened yesterday with a new lawsuit unless it makes peace with Danny Gardella, unconditionally released by St. Louis Cardinals.

"I have nothing to say," the stormy little outfielder declared when told of his release. "The matter is being handled by my attorneys."

Gardella listed his lawyers as Merritt, Einstein and Johnson. A member of the firm, Frederic A. Johnson, handled Gardella's famous $300,000 suit against baseball which kicked around in the courts for more than two years before it was settled last fall.

Johnson declined to make a statement.

The Cardinals said yesterday all other Major-League clubs had waived on the fielder's services and he had been given his unconditional release from Houston, a St. Louis farm.

"The new suit, if filed, would be to regain the full $5,000 yearly salary which was reported to be a part of the agreement in dropping the original litigation.

Fred Saigh, owner of the Cards takes the stand the outfielder couldn't make the grade. Gardella argues he wasn't given a fair chance to make good.

Also, a close friend said the stipulation that Gardella get $5,000 for a year's tryout with the Cards was part of the settlement of Gardella's original grievances, growing out of the banishment from baseball for jumping to the Mexican League.

AFTER LAWMEN'S SCALPS

Eskimos May Enter Tug-O-War on July 1

At long last Highland Games' officials may have secured a match for the city police department in the tug-o-war event on their annual July 1 sports card.

For years the gendarmes have been pulling their weight in oxen, winning every time contender Eskimo football team will recruit a team to contest the policemen's title.

Jack Reilly, supervisor of athletics for the Scottish show, is attempting to have the Eskimos line up some of their heftiest men for the event. It is believed that manager Al Anderson will be anchor man for the gridders. Reilly's considered opinion that the ladies' provincial 60-metre record will fall by the wayside on July 1. He believes that a 14-pound apeedster from Edberg named Elsie Ann Bjornson may be the gal to do it.

Little Elsie unofficially broke the record last season at Stettler, when she crossed the finish line in 7.2 seconds, three-tenths better than the record. But due to the fact that there were only two timers instead of the required three, her time was not recognized by the Alberta Amateur Union.

She claims she will smash the eight-second record at the games on July 1st, provided the track is in good condition and there are adequate officials.

Entries for the games have been received from Edberg, Calgary, Bowden, Kitscoty, Okotoks, New Norway, Red Deer and Stettler.

Vatican Said To Oppose Crown's Return By U.S.

LONDON, June 21—(UP)—Intervention by the Vatican may delay Hungary's release of American businessman Robert A. Vogeler, serving a 15-year prison term for alleged espionage and sabotage.

Sources close to the Vogeler negotiations said the Vatican had made it known to American authorities that it did not believe the ancient Hungarian Royal Crown of St. Stephen should be returned to Hungary in exchange for the executive's release.

Return of the crown was one of three Hungarian conditions for Vogeler's freedom to which the United States was said to have agreed tentatively. The others were permission to re-open Hungary's consulates in the United States and lifting of the ban on American travel in Hungary.

However, informants said the Vatican asked U.S. officials to find "some other way, if possible," to reach agreement with the Hungarians.

MINDSZENTY ANGLE

One of Hungary's charges against Josef Cardinal Mindszenty during his Budapest trial last year was that he asked the United States not to return the crown to Hungary while the Communists remained in power.

Unconfirmed reports said Hungary subsequently offered to release Cardinal Mindszenty from his life sentence if the crown were returned. The offer was rejected. U.S. forces found the crown in Germany after the war and still hold it there.

American authorities in Vienna, Austria, refused to comment on the negotiations for Vogeler's release. They said continued press speculation could wreck the negotiations between the American legation in Budapest and the Hungarian government.

Dulles Talks Peace Treaty

TOKYO, June 21—(UP)—John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to the U.S. state department, flew to Tokyo today to consult Gen. Douglas MacArthur about a quick peace treaty for Japan, without Russia if necessary.

Arriving from Seoul, Korea, Dulles planned to confer with MacArthur's headquarters staff on the general occupation situation later today, then get down to brass tacks with the general himself tomorrow.

Dulles would not say whether he also would confer with U.S. Defence Secretary Louis Johnson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Farmers Want Quarter Billion

Want 20-Cent Payment Above Five Cents In Five-Year Pool

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Representatives of some 50,000 western wheat farmers yesterday appealed to Trade Minister Howe to dish up $250,000,000 as the final payment to farmers under the five-year wheat board pool.

Heading the delegation were J. L. Phelps of Regina, president of the Farmers' Union of Saskatchewan, and Carl J. Stimpfle, head of the Farmers' Union of Alberta. Meeting them were Mr. Howe and Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Farm sources indicated that the total amount available for distribution in the pool is about $50,000,000, which would be about five cents a bushel for the approximate 1,000,000,000 bushels the farmers delivered to the pool during the five years of its operation.

WANT 20 MORE

Western farmers, believing they are entitled to something more than the final five-cent-a-bushel payment available, appealed to Mr. Howe to have the government add another 20 cents a bushel to the available amount.

This would give the farmers 25 cents a bushel as the final payment, bringing the price they received under the pool up from $1.75 to $2 a bushel — the price Canada obtained in the last two years of the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement.

This would mean, however, that the government would have to dip into the treasury to find another $200,000,000. Eeven a final 16-cent-a-bushel payment to the farmers would mean an extra cost to the government of $100,000.

As for the controversial "have regard to" clause, they were "apprehensive" as a result of a statement made in the Commons by Mr. Howe that the United Kingdom contended that they had fulfilled obligations under the clause.

"HAVE REGARD TO"

This insertion in the four-year agreement was to the effect that the U.K. would, in making any future commitments to buy Canadian wheat, consider the benefits it had received by obtaining wheat from Canada at prices which ranged below world prices.

The farmers said they hoped this was not the final decision of the U.K. They noted that further negotiations will be undertaken before the end of the crop year, July 31, and "it is our sincere hope that arising out of these representations, further negotiations may result in some relaxation of the adamant attitude the United Kingdom is reported to have taken."

However, obligations under the clause, continued the brief, did not rest so much on the United Kingdom as on the Canadian government.

"Let us remind you," the delegates told Mr. Howe, "that the agreement was negotiated by the two governments, that the producers as such were not first parties to it. They delivered their wheat under the agreement, accepting its terms in good faith and with every confidence that clause 2B—the so-called have regard to clause—meant exactly what it said."

Odds and Ends

Things must be getting back to normal. It's no longer a mark of special distinction to own a used car.

Toronto freezes while Edmonton roasts. I know a lot of people who would love to roast Toronto.

The police traffic department needs 20 more men. Those red parking tags must be stacking up on the department.

G. M. Blackstock KC, who heads the board of public utility commissioners (the gentleman who occasionally raises milk a cent a quart), started his annual vacation last Saturday.

Monday Mr. Blackstock had to attend an important meeting in Calgary. Yesterday some urgent business brought him down to the office.

Now you can easily see that if this kind of thing kept on Mr. Blackstock would have no holidays.

Mr. Blackstock knows that too. So from today on he's Blackstock the unknown.

Don't blame you a bit, Mr. Blackstock.

Subway Congestion

When, oh when, is the city going to start cleaning out the 109 street subway at night?

A businessman who is located just north of the "rat hole" told me yesterday that the one-way traffic ban every Thursday afternoon is just about tying up the whole district north of the subway.

★ ★ ★ ★

He tells me that many businessmen located in that area to be free of traffic congestion, citing the following large firms as examples: Poole Construction Co. Ltd., Stephens Paints, Industrial and Road Equipment Co., Western Construction and Lumber Co., A. V. Carlson Construction and Imperial Casket Co.

★ ★ ★ ★

Not only is traffic slowed to crawl through the subway itself but it is impossible to move east or west on 105A avenue while cleaning operations are going on.

Percy Gwynne, ex-Legion boss, says thunder showers have been bypassing his garden. As a result his radishes are suffering.

Percy thinks we should get some airmen aloft sowing dry ice in the clouds over his district so rain will come down on his radishes.

"We better get cracking soon," says Percy. "We seem to have lost the Detwiler project. If we don't act fast we'll lose our rain, too."

Helicopter To Ferry Searchers Over River

The helicopter was to ferry the ground party across the swollen Athabasca River at a point 40 miles northwest of Edson.

It planned to remain at Whitecourt, Alta., until word was received that the searchers have reached the river crossing.

Meanwhile an RCAF Beechcraft took off from Edmonton between 6 and 7 p.m. yesterday to check on the position of the ground party and contact the helicopter if the men and 12 horses reach the river.

Parents of the missing man, found dead since he disappeared in wilderness country are waiting in Obed, Alta., for news.

Western Gear Moving From The Old Corral

By Pat McVean
Bulletin Staff Writer

Western "gear" is moving out of Edmonton stores as fast as an old hoss thief with a posse of mounted police on his trail.

And, pardner, that's fast.

Merchants have found that by staking out an old corral around their children's wear departments, and stocking western jeans and two-gun holsters instead of sailor suits and dimity dresses, they can boom their juvenile clothing business to an unprecedented high.

The craze for western clothing, which is sweeping the United States, reached Edmonton several weeks ago.

Cowboy, both adult and juvenile, have always been steady buyers of cowboy and frontier type clothing

BIGGEST YEAR

Now merchants, anticipating a healthy share of the fifty million dollars Canadians and Americans are expected to spend on western goods this year, cheerfully say:

"This will be our biggest year in history."

Some of them expect the cowpoke craze to last as long as five years.

Edmonton merchants weren't surprised by the first rumblings of the ten-gallon-hatted desperado of the backyard range who was a-foxin' to get him some western gear and shootin' irons.

Their trade magazines had already predicted Hopalong Cassidy, Roy Rogers and Gene Autry would be hittin' the retail trail to rope and hawg-tie a pokeful of sales for them.

Canadian factories early this year began turning out frontier pants, cowboy shirts, chaps, belts, lariats, and ten-gallon hats for four- to ten-year-old customers who, in another era, would have affected Little Lord Fauntleroy suits.

Today, from behind pseudo-corrals in Edmonton's modern department stores sales clerks are selling two-gun holsters quicker than you can say, "Reach for the sky."

And that's not all. Moppets who have only the mukmuk to thank for the fact that they've seen a horse are demanding steer-head monogrammed vests, fringe denims, cowboy boots, Hopalong Cassidy knives, dungarees and even pyjamas with the cowboy motif.

Though they can't share at a television screen's version of their cowboy heroes' exploits as do their American counterparts, they're right in the range by way of Hopalong Cassidy comic strips, Roy Rogers movies and Gene Autry's recordings.

At Christmas, say the foremen of the department store corrals, Edmonton kiddies will expect a stockingful of Western duds.

Showers Halt Mercury's Race Toward June Record

Yesterday Wasn't Hottest, It Only Seemed That Way

The mercury lost to thunder showers yesterday.

The red stuff in thermometers climbed to 88, an all-time record high for June 20, less than half an hour before wind-lashed showers brought relief from the heat wave.

From the time it was forecast June 7 until late yesterday:

The weather office at Edmonton received (by actual meteorological count) 969 telephone calls to enquire the temperature;

Informed, 861 (estimated) of the callers said: "Sure feels hotter than that," four said simply, "gosh," and two recalled Edmonton's all-time hot day, June 20, 1937.

(On that date the mercury hit 99 degrees in the shade; thermometers left in the sun boiled to 158 degrees and then blew their tops. The heat wave ended the next day with thundershowers.)

Also during the current wilted-collar-and-moldering-sidewalk season:

Three Edmonton children were given permission to slop around with the hose in the backyard.

Edmontonians, according to dairy officials, gulped more ice cream—bricks, sundaes and cones — than they had eaten in any other June on history.

Number of Edmontonians who said the heat had prostrated them was unofficially reported as 135,687.

Medical Health Officer Dr. G. M. Little prescribed a sure method:

"Go fishing."

Tuesday was a near-tropical day in Calgary.

The thermometer reached 88 degrees—it was one of the hottest June the 20ths on record.

Eighty-eight was reached on June 20 in 1925. The hottest June 20 in Calgary records was in 1919 however, when the mercury bubbled up to 94 degrees.

Car Hits Railing

RED DEER, June 21.—No one was injured when a car driven by Norman Jevne crashed into a bridge railing half a mile north-west of Leslieville about 11 p.m. Saturday. Damages to the car amounted to $250. Mr. Jevne told RCMP that he was blinded by lights of an approaching car which caused him to swerve.

Store Owners Hold Picnic

Majority of Edmonton home furnishers will be spending this afternoon at South Cooking Lake.

There, at cottage grounds of W. T. Henly, chairman of the Alberta College board of governors, they will hold their annual picnic.

Organized by Edmonton Home Furnishers' Association, the outing will be attended by furniture store owners and managers. Guests will include heads of wholesale houses and manufacturers' representatives.

Highlight of the afternoon will be a horseshoe-pitching contest. Contestants will compete for the W. T. Henry Cup and the Marshall Wells cup.

Association president T. H. Campbell, will preside.

Doctors Name Edmonton Man

Dr. P. Sprague, Edmonton, has been named vice-president of the Canadian Society for the Study of Allergy.

He was elected at meetings held in Montreal yesterday. Dr. Bram Rose, Montreal, was chosen president, and Dr John Ross, Toronto, secretary-treasurer.

Council elected includes Dr. J. C. Anderson, Saskatoon; Dr. J. H. Eto, Toronto; Dr. T. M. Sienkewitz, Halifax; Dr. Harold Bacal, Montreal.

BRIGHT SIDE

Block Of Ice Aids Big Fan Cool Workers

Warm weather worries have been overcome by the general office staff of Alberta Livestock Co-operative, 10126-96 street.

They have installed the latest thing in air-conditioners, an electric fan which blows the cool air arising from a 50 pound block of ice in a tub through to their office.

★ ★ ★

And speaking of the heat: Students ordinarily enjoy two months' vacation in summer to get away from the heat, but some have gone back to school to escape it.

They are attending the locker plant course at the university and their studies are in quite chilling atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

Peculiar sight on Jasper avenue yesterday was a chap of about 19 in blue jeans, the legs of which were neatly rolled to reveal a well-tanned pair of bare feet.

His attire aroused speculation among other pedestrians until one fast work boy on his shoes hurt or (3) he was a visitor from Calgary.

★ ★ ★

And speaking of shoes, an Edmontonian—who always wears them — has found out why he limped all last summer after buying that new pair of sports shoes. On close examination when he brought them out for this year's trials, he found one shoe was half a size smaller than the other.

DEATH BEFORE DISHONOR

Nude Lady Running Second In Tattoo Popularity Poll

By Barney McKinley
Bulletin Staff Writer

When the man with the flying tattoo needle—R. V. Hughson from Barrie, Ont. was a boy his father ordered him one day not to get himself tattooed down at the Chautauqua fair.

So—if you'll take a look at Mr. Hughson 30 years later, as he stands with needle poised in the little tattooing shop he has just opened in Edmonton, you will find him behind 38—count 'em—tattoos.

In fact Mr. Hughson, not necessarily just to teach his father a lesson ,is probably as tattoo happy a man as there is north of Calcutta, India.

The tattooist is in Edmonton on a temporary basis, he said yesterday, above the buzz of his needle. He is "covering" the Calgary Stampede and the Edmonton Exhibition, he stated.

After that, he is going back to Barrie, Ont., where he has a hobby shop and whole camp full of soldiers all clamoring to have "Death before Dishonor" tattooed on their military muscles.

FAVORITE DESIGN

Favorite design has been this "Death before Dishonor" business, he says.

"One of the first I did on myself," he said, extending a highly decorated forearm—"Well, I had to practice on somebody."

Mr. Hughson said he learned his tattooing in England from a man named "Pop" and another called "Professor Searle."

"Great artists," he explains.

That was back in 1937.

Since then he has followed the tattoo trail around the world and through four years of army life.

For a hobby he invented his own needles and created his own tattoo designs—including a nude lady who is runner-up in popularity to the "Death before Dishonor" number.

He recalls wandering through the famous block-long tattoo streets of Colombo, Ceylon, and Shanghai, Ceylon and Shanghai, but dismisses the artists there as "primitives."

"Whalebone and bamboo needles can't compare with this fine steel—nickel alloy," he claims.

He is just a little wistful about the trick he saw in Japan.

In this one the artist paints the design on a studded board, puts the board on the subject's back and "pounds" the design in.

"They work very quickly," Mr. Hudgson conceded.

He says there is very little pain involved in modern tattooing, the sensation being merely that of a slight burn as the needle, vibrating 50 times to the minute, penetrates the first skin leaving the ink behind.

Mr. Hughson can tell you there is a place for tattooing in the world of medicine and in the beauty parlor as well as in the purely artistic field.

In plastic surgery for instance, it is used to color edges of skin grafts to natural skin tones and it has also been employed to graft eyebrows and even beards on hairless grafted skin.

And as for the "beauty parlor" end of the deal—well in Mr. Hughson's trade magazine called, reasonably enough, "Tattoo," there is a claim that lipstick and permanent rouge can be tattooed into lips and cheeks.

That brings us to the wild animal farm, somehow or other.

According to the same magazine the tattoo needle is used here to "earmark" chinchillas, foxes and other fur animals with age, sex, name of mate and owner.

Oh, yes. Do women get tattooed? Mr. Hughson says some do, but must don't, "not in Canada anyway."

Solidified Cologne Selling With Speed

By Bea Thrifty

This is my melting moment . . . and summer's sunshine will fade me right out of today's picture if I don't' struggle on to that jar of solidified cologne.

Ahhhhh . . . such sweetness . . . such coolness . . . such enthusiasm for the new icy fragrance sold in a wax-like form. Selling at $2.25 per party-pretty jar this glamor-glacier is oh-so-popular with the know-all gals.

Since its arrival here at the week-end, shops report perfume sales jumps . . . after all it belongs to the perfume family doesn' it?

☆ ☆ ☆

I'm most partial to it for it's soothing 'n sweet . . . makes me feel leisurely, relaxed, refreshed . . . and almost human these scorcher days.

☆ ☆ ☆

A short-cut to beauty that gives a fresh summery look to a simple blouse comes from the land of flowers.

A plain long-sleeved blouse of white silk becomes a tea-party perfect when artificial flowers are used instead of cuff-links . . . another posy as a collar button.

Another fresh-as-a-daisy idea is to tuck a spray of pale pink daisies at the throat of a navy sheer frock . . . and have another single flower sewn on a ribbon for your wrist . . . feminine 'n fancy, what!

Ohhhhh . . . groannnn . . . the heat's a-beatin' my feet!

And I can't make up my mind about blaming my shoes, my walking-about . . . or the weather . . . or a combination of all three.

But this very oh-so-hot morn I was icily greeted with this sally by a local shop-clerk: Maybe you should blame your stockings and your vanity madam!

Well!

When I harumphed in matronly dudgeon, sales clerk proceeded to explain whys and wherefores of her bald, unflattering statement. Seems most women today buy correct-fitting shoes . . . but many wear stockings half a size or more too short.

She said "You know madam, bigger stockings will probably keep you foot-happy . . . even if they prick your pride."

I must confess I think she may have a point there.

☆ ☆ ☆

With just a pat of the powder puff you too may be a Sun Goddess if a certain new cosmetic make-up gem turns out to be all it's cracked up to be.

It's a magically blended foundation tint and powder combined and does more than adequate job whether you're wearing chiffon and sipping sarsparilla at a garden party . . . or languishing on the beach in an abbreviated sarong.

It makes your beauty routine a simple matter of seconds . . . and all in a gay little box for 65c!

Parents Should Realize Children Not Perfect

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There are no such individuals as perfect parents, nor is there anywhere a perfect home.

Knowing that life is imperfect and that they are too, makes it easier for parents to accept their natural mistakes and failings without crushing discouragement.

Mrs. H. U. writes, "I could weep at my home and children. I feel as if I were a complete failure as a parent. I have three children, a boy of nine, a girl of five, and a boy of two. They are perfect little demons at times. (At others I have to admit I am proud of them.)

THEY'RE JUST REAL

Maybe they seem awful only because they differ from the story-book characters you had in mind.

Children have ugly emotions toward their parents and each other and they should understand that they do.

When a child says, "I hate you"—and most of them do—say, "You do at the moment, because you are angry at me, but most of the time you love me very much, as I love you."

Our leaflet No. 86 "How to Be a Good Parent" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

TO AVOID FRECKLING, avoid the direct sun rays by timing your exposures for early morning and late afternoon and by wearing shading headwear whenever possible.

WHY GROW OLD

Freckles Aren't So Bad; Don't Let 'em Spoil Fun

Q. "I am a girl 17 years old. I have a good profile, brown hair and hazel eyes, but I have an awful lot of freckles.

I am always conscious of them. I wish you would advise me on this matter and tell me how to make them an advantage rather than a disadvantage."

A. I suppose no one would just choose to have freckles, but lots of people think they are attractive. You can use a bleaching cream on them to lighten them or you can use diluted lemon juice. Apply either and leave the cream on as directed and the lemon juice on until it dries. Then rinse it off.

AVOID DIRECT RAYS

This summer enjoy sports and outdoors but-not in the most extreme way. Forget freckles and have fun whenever you wish or need to, but when you can, wear a large hat to shade your face.

You can select a make-up base that has a rosy tan tint which will cover the freckles pretty well. I do not advise too regular use of this though for the very youthful skin. Use it for special parties and big evening occasions.

Q. "I have hairs between my eyes, on my upper lip and on my chin. I tweeze those on my chin and applied a depilatory to the others, but this made my face burn and break out in a rash. What shall I do about these hairs?"

A. Use either cosmetic wax or have them removed by electrolysis. You can first try bleaching them with peroxide twice a week.

Q. "Will chewing gum make me fat?"

A. The only thing in gum which is fattening is the sugar. If you chewed constantly, taking a new stick every hour or so it might have some effect. I think your jaws would give out before you gained much weight.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Reader Lists Advantages Of Her Lot As Spinster

DEAR MISS DIX: I work for a large firm. Most of the men in it are married and they are always pitying me because I am drifting into old maidhood.

I smile and compare my lot with that of their wives. I live in a pleasant boarding house where I have delicious food that I do not have to prepare myself. A pretty room that I do not have to keep clean.

My day's work begins at 9 and ends at 5 after which my time is my own. My salary provides me with good clothes, trips, amusements. I have no man to keep placated nor tied to me.

The wives, as a rule, look ten years older than I do. Their work is never done. They have to cook and wash and sew and wrestle with their children. They have to make every dollar do the work of five.

They have to bear with men who drink and flirt and philander and who are grouchy and hard to live with and to save my life I can't see where their lot is better than mine. Do you?

A FREE SOUL

ANSWER: I certainly do not, unless they have such an overwhelming passion for their husbands that it takes the sting out of every sacrifice and makes them feel that every hardship is worth while, if only they can be with their adored ones, Dicks and Harrys.

MARRIAGE A RISK

Now, I'm not saying that a girl shouldn't marry until she can take out a foolproof insurance on matrimonial bliss. If she did, she would never marry. Marriage is bound to be a dangerous venture and the old proverb "nothing ventured, nothing have" is as good in it as it is elsewhere in life.

Pat Cormick Wears Satin 'n Lace For Marriage to Gordon R. Smith

White lilacs decorated the Church of St. John the Evangelist for the recent wedding ceremony uniting Patricia Maxine Cormick and Gordon Rutherford Smith.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Cormick and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith, all of Edmonton.

Rev. W. E. Harrison performed the double ring ceremony.

Bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace over satin. It was styled on Princess lines and featured long pointed sleeves. A ruffle of pleated lace outlined the neck, yoke and sleeves.

SATIN LACE MUFF

She carried a satin and lace muff covered with gardenias, sweetheart roses and stephanotis. Her finger-tip veil fell softly from a coronet of lace.

Mrs. D. A. Barry attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore an apricot taffeta gown with a tight bodice and full skirt. She had matching taffeta mittens. Her colonial bouquet of Talisman roses, violas, and Kokomo carnations was tied with a green ribbon.

Also attending the bride were the Misses Mary Boyd and Gwen Sinclair. They were gowned alike in pale green taffeta. They carried similar Colonial bouquets tied with yellow ribbons.

Best man was Angus Smith. Ushering the guests to pews marked with white ribbons and white lilacs were Horace Bradley and Bruce Cormick.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. H. B. Allison.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cormick chose a dress which featured a beige tulle pleated skirt with a lace jacket and mittens. Her French model hat in shell was accented with navy velvet and silk flowers in similar tones. She wore navy suede shoes and a corsage of rapture pink Delight roses and violas.

Bridegroom's mother wore a wine and white printed silk dress with white hat and gloves. She chose a corsage of Talisman roses and Kokomo carnations.

DRAWING ROOM

Reception was held in the drawing room of the Macdonald Hotel where lilacs were used for decoration. Bride's table was centred with three-tiered cake topped with sweetheart roses. White tapers and pale pink carnations also graced the table.

Mrs. Norman Smith and Mrs. Harold Heath poured coffee. Toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, Reginald Heath.

For travelling the bride wore a pink and grey printed nylon dress. She chore a grey fitted coat and crownless hat and gloves of pink.

In colonial New England, sheep blood and melted snow were among the liquids considered excellent quenches for special purpose iron.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1950

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—May be little help today while speeding headwinds of business or day's circumstances. Skirt reckless discussions; avoid contacts until conditions improve.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Good sense of humor; alertness can bridge you safely over day's problems. Fit in your work and social plans, but stress the former. Heart interests need extra care.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Several varied errands. Use more than words. Smart action, tact and plenty of will-power will achieve. Be amenable to suggestions, especially from loved ones and worthy friends.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You may feel that plans have been riddled, that nothing that you do is right. Take a more optimistic outlook, avoid tension. Apply your affable side and you can eliminate much contention.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Keep close tab on civic and world happenings—they affect progress. Don't, in making contracts, attempt to get by with make-shift plans. Plan more attractive for personal affairs, romance.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Good period to explore quietly, to study. Do not attempt too many deals, changes. Generous outlook for business and personal affairs that have real merit, possibilities.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Creative work, manufacturing, handling products, merchandise, all favored. News from unlikely sources may change course of action; be observant, but don't force issues. Mere things!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Generous day for achievement along sensible and solid lines. Don't try to do too outlandish or become daring in your effort. Do your duty, your best, and that will suffice.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Some beneficial rays present sincere tries, but there is need for caution in taking too much. Play up your amenable personality, make fair, your desire to co-operate.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—There are evidences of improving conditions in finance and business. Promote amity at home as well as in civic circles. Help others avoid beclouding the truth; ask for facts.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Opportune now for mental and physical endeavor. Top-workers: Instructors, lawyers, managers, assistants, construction workers, students in art. Work in harmony with others and achieve.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Disorder in household or work place can be avoided if you check carefully before starting a project. Exert a little more, be rightly confident and you really can progress.

Tobe on Fashion —

Plaid Shorts—A Growing Campus Fashion

I'm just back from a week-end at one of the big women's colleges and I was very interested to see how fast the vogue for plaid shorts is spreading.

Since it was still quite cold, many were in wool plaids. But there were enough plaid gingham and other cottons to indicate that these will be the big warm weather fashion. Most of these were the longer Bermuda shorts, a good length for general wear. I must say I thought them a great improvement over rolled up blue jeans.

Fresh white cotton shirts, and navy or red casuals were worn with these plaid shorts — producing a young, fresh, and neater look than the girls have had in years.

New Coat Helps RR Section Man

Mouton Collar Stands Up Higher Than Head At Back

They're still building better "mousetraps."

This time is it 21-year-old Edmontonian, William Parker 11419-101 avenue, who has come up sweating and beaming in the middle of a hot summer's day with a new idea for a railroaders' coat that will keep their ears warm in winter but still allow them to hear the "cannonball" coming down the track.

Young Mr. Parker, in defiance of the weather, was wearing the special coat this morning on his way to find a railroad man or two who might be interested in keeping warm next winter.

The section hand said coats were being made all wrong as far as railroad men were concerned.

He told Parker that the coats should be longer, and they should have a guard that would leave the nose free for breathing.

Above all, said the section hand, rubbing his ears, the coat should have a big high collar to practically cover the head, but at the same time remain stiff enough so that the wearer could harken for oncoming trains with a minimum of interference.

ALL CHANGED

Today Mr. Parker said he thought he would be able to bring a little joy into the section hand's life this coming winter.

He was demonstrating a canvas backed sheeplined coat with a mouton collar that reached right up over the back of his head. It had been made by a manufacturer to specifications, he said.

It looked warm. At noon yesterday it looked considerably too warm.

But Mr. Parker made it obvious by adroit twists of his head that it was easy to get an ear free of the big collar.

IT WAS PRETTY HOT for demonstration, but William Parker, 11419-101 avenue, shows Tybie Newman, 10520-132 street, his "railroaders" coat. It covers head to keep cold blasts from ears, but is designed so wearer can twist his head to hear trains coming.

Labor Avoids Pool Talks

LONDON, June 21.—(UP)—Labor members of parliament went into a secret caucus today to close the party's ranks against an opposition move to force Britain into the Schuman plan talks.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee obviously was worried that some internationally-minded Labor MP's might abstain or even vote in favor of a joint Conservative-Liberal motion calling for British participation in the Paris conference.

With a nominal majority of only six in the house, Labor abstention or votes for the opposition motion next week could defeat the government and force its resignation.

The Schuman plan provides for the pooling of western Europe's iron and steel resources under a super-national authority. France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Western Germany and Italy began discussing it in Paris yesterday.

Detours Needed For Only 8 Highway Improvement Jobs

Traffic is being accommodated through all but eight of the 33 highway improvement projects now underway in Alberta, public works officials said today.

Detours are necessary from Chipman Corner to Mundare corner on highway 16 where asphalt surfacing is underway, and on No. 23 highway for nine miles west and north of Vilna, where another hard-surfacing crew is at work.

Traffic is using the old highway between Lacombe and Tees where asphalting is being completed.

Grading and gravelling crews are at work on new roads at the Peace River Hill, between Allards and Compeer, between Fort Kent and East Rife, between Breton and Norbuck Corner and between Irvine and Elkwater.

USING OLD ROADS

Traffic is using old roads in these areas. A district road is being used while a grading crew is at work between Gibbons and Coronado on highway 37.

Hard surfacing is being completed between Mcleod and Cardston, Taber and Winnifred, Pincher and Lundbreck, and Seba Corner and Stysl, but traffic is moving through these jobs.

Travel is also unhampered through more than a dozen other grading and gravelling projects being completed in other parts of the province.

Flood-Affected Roads Fail To Stop Tourists

Spring flood conditions which have adversely affected national park highways has failed to curtail tourist traffic in the province.

Report of the Albert Travel Bureau said today visitors' traffic shows a slight increase over last year's volume at this time.

Flash floods in the mountains washed out two bridges on the Banff-Jasper highway last week and this road is now closed to traffic until further notice.

ROUGH, DUSTY

The Banff-Windermere highway is rough and dusty in places with construction work being done near Marble Canyon and Sinclair Summit.

Most traffic in this area is using the Radium-Golden-Field route to Lake Louise. The highway through Banff to Field, Golden and the Big Bend is fair to rough and dusty.

Medicine Lake Road to Jasper and the Moraine Lake road in Banff National Park are open but still soft in spots and careful driving is advised.

YOHO ROAD OPEN

The Yoho Valley highway is open and in fair condition.

In Southern Alberta Chief Mountain highway near Waterton Lakes is good as is the road to the main park entrance. Some gravelling is being completed between miles six and eight on this highway.

Pass Creek road to Red Rock Canyon in the Waterton park is good. Akamina highway is closed.

Missionary Escaped From Sarcee Indians

We were talking about the early bands of Indians of Alberta last time and discussed the oldest tribe—the Sarcees. Today we shall give some descriptions of them by early travellers.

In the summer of 1857, Captain Palliser described his meeting with the Sarcees: "We were visited by a body of about 70 of the Sarcee tribe," he wrote, "headed by the chiefs richly attired in dresses, ornamented with porcupine quills and trimmed with ermine. We invited them to sit down and smoke."

STAYED OVERNIGHT

He went on to tell how the chiefs were pleased with the white men and remained in camp the night.

Dr. John McDougall, one of the pioneer missionaries in Alberta, once described his first meeting with Bull's Head, last warrior chief of the Sarcees. In 1872, the Reverend Doctor was travelling across the country between Edmonton and Calgary with a small party of half breeds when they were suddenly met by a body of Sarcee warriors.

LED BY BULL'S HEAD

The group was fully armed and led by Bull's Head, a strong, fierce-looking warrior. The missionary saw no way of escape, so he bravely walked toward the war party until he stood before Bull's Head.

"The Great Spirit, our common Father, must have directed my path to you," exclaimed the fearless minister, "for we are out of supplies."

The chief merely grunted, made a few enquiries, and received the group into his encampment. None of the band was injured, but all were treated as prisoners. They soon learned the Sarcees were on the warpath. In search of their hated enemies, the Crees.

ESCAPE SUCCESSFUL

After a few days, Bull's Head entered the district of the Crees. In the excitement of preparing for attack, the missionary's group was either forgotten or ignored and were able to escape. From the camp they travelled south until they reached Morleyville, west of the present city of Calgary.

Dr. MacLean, in his record of 1896 told of the Sarcee still celebrating the annual Sun Dance learned from the Blackfeet. They were all fond of singing and dancing, he reported, and had learned the art of card-playing from the whitemen.

TEA DANCE

In the long winter evenings, says the missionary, the men gather in their lodges or log houses with their drums and hold a tea dance. They would all drink plenty of this beverage and relate stories of the old days.

"Tales of the buffalo days are told," reported the missionary, "wherein the narrator was one of the principal actors. The aged man vividly speaks of the battles, scalps, glorious wounds, hairbreadth escapes, horses and women captured."

Friday, Tawasi members, we shall talk of one tribe of Indians who are far from their original home. These are the Iroquois, who originally lived near Montreal and never ventured onto the western prairies.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

Uncle Wiggily's new houseboat was something like a raft. That is the boat didn't go down very deep in the water, like a regular motor boat. And, being flat like a raft, the houseboat could come close to the shore without nearing a dock.

So when he saw the new island in Fwog Pond, Uncle Wiggily just steered his flat house boat up on shore and let it rest there.

"All ashore who are going ashore on this island!" called Uncle Wiggily as he shut off the motor. "All ashore!"

"We'll follow you," barked Mr. Bow Wow.

"And we ladies will bring the lunch baskets," said his wife.

"Then we'll have a picnic," grunted jolly, fat Mr. Twistytail the gentleman pig.

"Here's the Swiss cheese," said Aunt Lettie, "Now, Uncle Wiggily, hop on the island."

The houseboat was very close to the new island. Uncle Wiggily found it easy to hop from the boat to the land.

"Come ashore, everybody!" invited the rabbit gentleman.

All the others jumped off the houseboat which was then made fast to a big stump on shore so that the boat wouldn't float away.

"Oh, what a lovely island, Columbus Uncle Wiggily!" grunted Mrs. Twistytail.

"You should not call me Columbus," said Mr. Longears. "After all, my dear, there may be someone living on this island."

"We'll soon find out about that," bleated Uncle Butter. "Come on, Wiggy, you and I and Bow Wow and Twisty will have a look around while the ladies set out the picnic lunch."

"Yes, I think that's a good idea," agreed Mr. Longears. So he and the dog, the goat, and the pig gentlemen started off toward the middle of the island.

As Mrs. Twistytail had said, it was a lovely island. There were green trees and green bushes and flowers of many colors. Birds were singing in the trees. But as for any other animals living on the island, Uncle Wiggily and his friends saw none.

"Wiggy, I think you have really discovered a new island," grunted Mr. Twistytail.

"And we'll name it after him," bleated Uncle Butter as he ate a piece of Swiss cheese and put one piece on his left horn by sticking the end of the horn through one of the holes in the cheese. "We'll name this 'Uncle Wiggily Island.' How about it, friends?"

"Yes, we'll do that," said Mr. Twistytail. Then Mr. Bow Wow, who had run off down a path, came running back suddenly.

"Wiggy," barked Mr. Bow Wow, "I don't believe we are the first ones to come to this island. I have just found a doghouse. Come and look at it. Come and see the doghouse I found."

That was a surprise, wasn't it? I'll tell you more tomorrow. If the rubber band around the bundle of papers will play a tune so the fountain pen can dance with the bottle of ink.

The limerick originated as an impromptu song sung at Irish feasts of the early 19th century, dealing with an inhabitant of an Irish town.

Cards of Thanks

We would like to express our thanks and appreciation to all our friends for flowers and kind expressions of sympathy.
—Mrs. Melton and family.

Mr. William Hunter and family wish to thank their friends and relatives for the many expressions of sympathy and acts of kindness during our recent bereavement. Our loss of a deeply loved wife and Mother was made easier by the many thoughtful words and deeds and will long be remembered by those of us who are left to cherish her memory.

In Memoriam

To assist our readers in preparing In Memoriam notices, the Bulletin has prepared a Booklet of appropriate wordings Write or telephone 42111 for this Booklet

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. R. Littlechilds, who passed away June 21, 1949.
—Every remembered by her sons and daughters.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Edward Kriaski who died June 19, 1948.

"A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled
Oh dearest one, how we miss you!
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever near.
Oh how long and sad the day
Since from earth you passed away!
We miss your sweet and smiling face;
We miss you everywhere.
Forgotten to the world by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you will always be."

—Ever remembered by brothers and sisters of the McEwan family.

HOODED KLANSMEN marched for first time in over 15 years at Jackson, Miss., but they bowed to local fire safety laws when it came time to burn their symbolic cross. Marchers are seen leaving parade ground with their 20-foot rag-wrapped cross unburned. They obeyed order of Imperial Emperor Lycurgus Spinks not to burn cross after Klavern refused ordinance against "burning trash and other items between hours of sunset and sunrise."

MAYBE LORD'S EYE POSSESSED TWINKLE, TOO!

LONDON, June 21—(AP)—Baron Mountevans told the House of Lords last night that religion is suffering from a lack of humor.

This could be overcome, he said, by "snappier prayers." He suggested the following:

"God, give me sympathy and common sense."

"And help me home with courage high.

"God, give me calm and confidence."

"And please—a twinkle in my eye."

Verigin, Aide Convicted On One Charge

NELSON, B.C., June 21 — (CP) — Michael (The Archangel) Verigin and his aide, Leo Podovinikoff, last night were convicted of seditious conspiracy. More charges were to be heard.

Verigin is the leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor colony at Hilliers on Vancouver Island; Podovinikoff is his secretary.

An assize court jury convicted them on the charge, which could mean a possible two years in jail, after deliberating 70 minutes.

They were remanded to later in the spring assizes fr sentence.

Hearing of another charge against Verigin—conspiring to burn the community hall at Brilliant, B.C.—will begin today.

CHARGE TO JURY

The chief defence, said Mr. Justice James M. Coady in his charge to the jury, was that there had been nudism, wife-sharing and no schooling in Krestova before Verigin came there in 1944.

"However, if you come to the conclusion that these two men agreed to promote the continuance of these practices, there was conspiracy."

Krestova, near Nelson, B.C., is the Sons of Freedom headquarters, where a rash of burnings and nudeparades flared last April.

The conspiracy charges against the two men take in conspiring to encourage Doukhobors to disobey the laws of Canada, to assemble when nude, to refuse to send their children to school and to commit adultery.

N.Z. Dockers Settle Strike

WELLINGTON, N.Z., June 21—(Reuters) — A two-day dockers' strike over a cargo of carbon black in the port of Wellington, which had threatened to paralyze the entire New Zealand waterfront, ended this morning.

The dockers had claimed extra payment for unloading the "dirty" cargo aboard the 5,000-ton British Myrtlebank. They accepted terms suggested by a waterfront industry commission—including a 3s. 6d. (50 cents) per ton special differential for handling the cargo, and a bonus to cover damage to clothing.

Contractor, Daughter To Meet After 22 Years

Tomorrow will be a big day in the life of Edmonton contractor Louis Buray.

The 22-year-old daughter he hasn't seen since she was two months old will arrive from Vienna on the morning plane.

The reunion follows a year-and-a-half of patient work on the part of the Edmonton builder, battling bureaucratic red tape in Communist-dominated countries.

It also follows years of unsuccessful attempts to bring his ailing wife to Canada from his former home in Czechoslovakia.

"I have been here since 1924 and I have tried to bring my wife over seven times," he said.

WIFE DIED

"But it is hard to bring someone who has heart trouble," he added sadly.

He was able to return to visit her on two occasions before she died some years ago, he said. Following his wife's death, his daughter lived with his parents who died recently.

The Czech-Communists refused for over a year to give his daughter a visa because "she is young and able to work," he said.

Arrangements were finally made through the international displaced persons organization to bring her home near Bratislava Dec. 5 for Vienna.

With her will be her five-year-old son Lacy whose father is a Russian military police officer, since divorced by the Czech girl.

The girl is an artist and ladies' ready to wear designer, her father stated. She speaks Hungarian, Slovak and German, but no English.

Britain Seen As European Base For U.S. Planes

LONDON, June 21 — (Reuters) — The News Chronicle reported today that the United States has decided to establish in Britain a complete bomber-fighter air force.

The newspaper said this news was contained in an announcement that a jet-fighter squadron will be sent to Britain in July or August.

"The decision can be read to mean that Britain, already an advanced base for B-29 and B-50 heavy bombers capable of atom bombs carrying, is to become an European base for an integrated force composed of both heavy and medium bombers and fighters," the newspaper's air correspondent wrote

There were 579 Victoria Crosses awarded during the First World War, and two bars.

OTTAWA. — (CP) — CCF members of parliament last night charged that insurance companies exerted pressure to reduce the sale of Canadian government annuities.

The charge brought a sharp denial from Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell as he defended labor department appropriation requests in floor debate.

Mitchell told Parliament the drop of 50 per cent in the sale of annuities over the last two years was due to the reduction in the interest rate paid by the government. The rate was cut from four per cent to three per cent about two years ago.

Gas Cap Hints Leduc Extension

By C. V. Myers
Bulletin Oil Editor

An important extension of the Leduc field appeared in the making yesterday when a well on acreage controlled by Imperial and Anglo, Home C. & E. hit the D-3 zone 173 feet above the Leduc Woodbend water line and gas flowed at 4,666,000 cubic feet, thus confirming a gas cap.

The importance of the well lay in its extremely high elevation. Located one mile north of the nearest Imperial Woodbend producer, it logged 70 feet higher.

Thus the well appears to be the most significant extension of the field since the two and three stepouts in the very early days of development in 1947.

40-FOOT OIL ZONE

If the same conditions apply as in the southern part of the field the gas cap would be 140 feet thick and the oil zone about 40 feet thick.

However, there is nothing at this stage to indicate the thickness of the gas cap.

The well certainly outlines a new and previously unknown rise in the Woodbend structure.

NEW WILDCATS

New wildcats in the surrounding area may be expected in the weeks to follow.

The present well is located at the south end of a 960-acre block pooled by Imperial on the one hand and Anglo, Home, C & E on the other, each party putting up half the acreage.

As a result Imperial has a 50 per cent interest, Anglo, Home, C & E share the other half.

Imperial Oil has sold the last of its Turner Valley interests. Federated Petroleums announced that it had purchased the Imperial interest in 35 wells, 29 oil wells, and six gas wells.

The oil wells gross about 16,500 barrels a month the Federated announcement said. Imperial's net interest was about 40 per cent of the production.

Wells involved were 16 Imperial Hudson's Bay wells, five Calmont Northwest wells, three Southwest Petroleum wells, five other wells and six gas wells. Federated will be the new operator. The purchase price was not announced.

INCORPORATION MOVE

Last week Federated moved to incorporate its associated and subsidiary companies. Both Foothills and Coastal are going into Federated.

Federated also plans to buy assets of its other subsidiary companies and end them. They are: Southwest, Lowery, Three Point, Vulcan Brown, Royal Crest, Four Star.

Last Nov. 15 Federated bought the Imperial interest in Foothills, Lowery, Southwest.

Today ended Imperial's oil and gas interest in southern Alberta production and in the Alberta pioneer oil field—Turner Valley.

Western Leaseholds has made a deal with Chief Mountain Oils based at Cardston for the development of 34,800 acres. Western Leaseholds will develop the acreage for a 75 per cent interest.
